

HUNGARIAN PREMIER DENIES OTTO'S RETURN

DEBRECZEN, Hungary, July 6.—(AP)—In the presence of four cabinet ministers and 70 members of parliament, Count Stephen Bethlen, premier of Hungary, today declared that the question of the Hungarian throne could be decided only in a constitutional manner.

He denounced what he described as "false and unwarranted rumors" spread abroad about the possible return of Archduke Otto, legitimist party candidate, who is studying in Belgium.

He said the government was determined to proceed vigorously against the authors of such rumors, because the return of Otto would constitute an act involving danger for Hungary.

The speech in general dealt with the foreign and domestic political situation of the country and coming into the close of parliament, was considered to be of unusual importance.

Internationally, the premier said, Hungary today is far from being so isolated among the peoples of the world as she was ten years ago. Treaties of friendship had been entered into with Italy, the United States, Germany, Turkey, Greece, Poland and others.

He believed that the Young plan and the solution of the eastern reparations problem have definitely settled Hungary's controversies with her neighbors. Financially, the horizon was for the moment clouded by an economic crisis, which he accused Hungarians abroad of "unscrupulously and irresponsibly using to further their own interests and injure their fatherland."

Gwinnett Perry Club Urges His Election

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., July 6. (Special).—An active "Perry for Governor" club has been formed in Gwinnett county, the home of the gubernatorial candidate, with Ambrose T. Green as chairman and John C. Houston as secretary.

The following statement was released today by the club:

In forming the "Perry for Governor" Gwinnett county campaign committee, the citizens of Gwinnett county present him to the voters of the state with a superior qualification over any other candidate. Mr. Perry has more to his credit, in the way of service to the citizens of Georgia, than any man, within our recollection, who has offered for this position. Typical of his constructive vision and foresight, we point to the recently completed passenger station on the state's property in Atlanta and the beginning of the cold storage plant on the old depot site, adding in value to the state's property approximately four million dollars, saying nothing of the almost certain future addition in a commercial development of the air rights of the state's Atlanta terminals in a sum approximating 12 million dollars. In the same thought it is known that the same progressive efforts have made possible the bringing of natural gas to various parts of the state. To those who have known him for a lifetime, it is no surprise that he has emphatically called for the abolition of useless political bureaus and commissions now infesting our state government, which will result in great savings and increased efficiency. In the same view he has condemned the time-worn ad valorem tax system as a means of supporting the state. Mr. Perry's public life has been one of distinguished achievement. As chairman of the Georgia public service commission he has been largely responsible for the economic use of electric light and power throughout the state and at the same time in the smaller towns as in the larger cities. He started the movement to give us railroad rates that place every shipping point within the state under similar conditions upon the same rate basis.

Mr. Perry is making his race upon clean issues; he is telling the people exactly what he stands for and is equally frank in saying who he is opposed to. He is the only candidate, so far as we know, who has had the courage to name the political departments that everyone knows are useless and should be abolished. He has the same characteristic candor, he has pointed out the impracticability of making progress with Mr. Hodder or Mr. Carwell as a leader. The very spirit of our constitution prohibits a father and son occupying the office of chief executive of the state, and of governor respectively, at the same time. It is inconceivable that one family can pass on matters in a court of last review and, at the same time, have another branch of the family in the household giving consideration to the same subject. Saying nothing of the immature years of the present incumbent, the fact that school books be published at actual cost or free, if approved by the legislature, has been bold enough to call attention to the great hardships forced on the people by having to go or send to the state capital for automobile tags which he says will be qualified to lead the people in this county to take charge of his campaign. Believing that the time has come when the people of Georgia should be the controlling factors in selecting their leaders, we respectfully and with confidence commend him to the voters throughout the state.

Ambrose T. Green, chairman, Perry Gwinnett Club, Lawrenceville, Ga.

10 Persons Injured In Latest Indian Riot

POONA, Bombay, India, July 6.—(AP)—Ten persons were injured today in a clash between police and members of a large procession which was on its way to the Yeravda jail to pay homage to Mahatma Gandhi on completion of his second month's imprisonment.

Police told leaders of the procession that it constituted unlawful assembly, whereupon the marchers squatted on the road for six hours throwing stones and flower pots at the police. Several of the officers were injured. They finally dispersed the crowd with a lathi charge.

Captain Blake of the Royal Bombay Sappers and Miners who was passing in a motor car with his wife was slightly injured by a stone thrown through the windshield. His wife fainted, but was uninjured.

the Swazis, or independence movement, have cast aside costly foreign silks and are now wearing simple homespun materials.

Women dressed in this manner made their first appearance today at a meeting of the Parsi Political Association held to protest against the arrest of Mrs. Papi Captain. Among those participating were Lady Pett, wife of Sir Dinshaw Manowjee Pett, and Lady Jeejeebhoy, wife of Sir Vyramjee Jeejeebhoy, as well as the wives of other titled millionaires.

The meeting was addressed by Pandi Vallabhai Patel, president of the national congress, who urged all Parsis to join the independence movement in their own interests.

"It has been suggested that Parsis might lose all their wealth under Swazis, but instead of being millionaires as at present, you would all become multi-millionaires under Swazis," he said.

Colorado Dry Agent Slain From Ambush

AGUILAR, Colo., July 6.—(AP)—Hidden behind a fence, an unknown assassin shot and killed Dale F. Kearney, 39, federal prohibition agent as the officer walked down the main street of Aguilar early today. The gunman made his escape in an automobile which an accomplice drove up the street immediately after the slaying.

Kearney had been stationed in Trinidad, 20 miles south of here, for several months. He had compiled a record of unusual activity in the arrest and prosecution of liquor law violators and was credited with having "cleaned up" Walsenburg, near here.

Officers believe a car drove down the street behind the dry agent and threw a light on Kearney to aid the gunman. Five shotgun shells were found behind the fence near which Kearney's body fell.

A garage attendant said he saw a car moving slowly down the street. Almost immediately afterward he heard five shots fired.

Only Two Bags Remain In National Balloon Race

HOUSTON, Texas, July 6.—(AP)—thirteen balloons of 15 which set out in the national elimination race from Houston Friday were down and out.

ROUND TRIP EXCURSION FARES ATLANTA

TO Birmingham $3.50
Memphis $10.00
Leave 8 a. m., 4:15 p. m.,

of the running this afternoon, and the two others, at last reports, were floating northeastward to eastward over Kentucky.

The two bags still in the air at last reports were the Goodyear-Zeppelin, Akron, Ohio, and the United Van Service of Cleveland, Ohio, which landed near Russell, Ky., today had traveled miles farther than any of the balloons which landed.

Thunderstorms in a 75-mile area around Texarkana brought 10 to 15 inches of rain, despite the desperate efforts of some of the pilots, who threw away all available ballast. One, Dr. George LeGalle in the Kelvinator of Detroit, even cut away part of his basket, after throwing away "food and such equipment," the headquarters race committee here was advised.

The City of Houston, piloted by Sergeant Otto Weinecke, of San Antonio, landed yesterday.

tonio with W. N. Fox, of Houston, as side, was the tenth to report its descent. The City of Houston came down at Hochstadt, Okla., about 75 miles northeast of Texarkana, at 6:45 p. m. yesterday, the committee was advised by wire today.

Down in Arkansas.

The eleventh was the navy entrant piloted by Lieutenant W. Bushnell, with Lieutenant J. A. Greenwald as side, which came down at 10:40 a. m. today at Piggott, in the northeast corner of Arkansas.

The twelfth to land was the United States navy balloon, Lieutenant T. G. W. Settle, pilot, and Lieutenant R. G. Mayer, side, which came down seven miles north of Dover, Tenn., at 12:10 p. m., central standard time, today.

Two sat down in Texas—the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, C. H. Roth, pilot, and W. P. Carey, side, and the army entrant piloted by Lieutenant W. R. Turnbull, with Lieutenant C. M. Brown as side. The Cleveland Chamber of Commerce dropped down at Talco, and the army bag a few miles away near Bogota, in northeast Texas.

Those which landed yesterday in Arkansas: General Electric, Cleveland, S. A. U., Rasmussen and T. W. Southworth; Detroit Aircraft, first to descend, W. A. Kilgoff and R. S. Cunningham; Kelvinator, Detroit, Dr. LeGalle and R. W. Ebert; army, Lieutenants W. D. Buie and J. P. Kidwell; army, Captain K. S. Axtater and Lieutenant R. E. Holmes; Aero Digest, New York, S. T. Moore and Lieutenant W. O. Eareckson; navy, Lieutenant R. R. Dennett and C. P. Miller.

The three over Kentucky were in and around Paducah, Ky., and Cairo, Ill., area, some 700 miles northeast of here, at about 7 o'clock this morning, according to wires received at headquarters. R. J. Blair and F. A. Trotter in the Goodyear-Zeppelin of Akron, Ohio, were over Cairo at 7:33 a. m.; George Hinesman and Milford Vanik, in the United Van Service of Cleveland, dropped a message at Paducah in which they said they had sighted E. J. Hill and A. C. Schlosser in the Detroit Times at a high altitude moving east.

Hinesman and Vanik reported they had lost ballast and gas "getting away from a farmer in Arkansas, who seemed determined to shoot us, eight bullets whistling past the bag." It was the second report of such treatment, the Aero Digest having been fired on unsuccessfully near Conroe, Texas.

Captain Willbur said a high-pressure area over the southeastern Atlantic states apparently had turned the winds behind the leaders, pushing them up the Ohio river valley. Lieutenant Haynie McCormick, of Fort Sill, Okla., operations officer for the army crews, believed this afternoon that the balloons would not have enough gas to get over the Allegheny mountains and possibly would be forced to land directly west of the last reported position directly toward the Maryland and Virginia coast.

Two among the 15 which land at the greatest distance away from Houston will join Ward Van Orman on the American team to participate in the international race to begin September 1. The record distance for a national race was set in 1924 from San Antonio by Van Orman, who went 1,047 miles.

He won the last international, however, with only 341 miles, and by virtue of that victory automatically is a contestant in the next world event.

former ATLANTAN
IS KILLED BY TRAIN

NATCHITOCHES, La., July 6.—(AP)—E. B. Cason, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., an employee of C. A. Pittman, of Atlanta, on the paving of the highway near here, was crushed to death by the midnight Texas & Pacific train here early today. Authorities are working on the supposition that Cason was slugged and robbed, then placed on the track by his attacker.

Fellow workmen of Cason who identified him by a stick pin and his shoes, declared that he had left a party about 11 o'clock with the announced intention of going home to bed. At that time, they said, he had taken one drink, but they denied that he was intoxicated enough to have gone to sleep on the track. Coroner M. H. Phelps said he was told.

The engineer on the train said the body was extended across the track, the head on one rail and the legs over the other. He did not see Cason's body until just a moment before the train crushed it.

E. Bruce Cason, formerly of Atlanta, was an employee of C. A. Pittman, of Atlanta, and had been connected with that construction company for many years.

He has a brother in Atlanta, J. V. Cason, employed by Charles L. Gateley, of 1216 West Peach Street, who, J. V. Cason learned of the death in a telegram from a third brother in Akron, Ohio, Sunday, and it is understood that he means plans to go to Natchitoches. It was stated that while residing in Atlanta, E. B. Cason lived on Ellis street, and was about 27 years of age.

Two MORE ARE KILLED
IN EMELE DISORDERS

EMELLE, Ala., July 6.—(AP)—Two negroes slain early today by armed posse searching for four negroes sought in connection with the slaying of two white men brought to six the death rowing out of disorders arising the Fourth of July.

Quiet again prevailed late today with roving bands of more than 200 men again disbanded, after a night of harassing wild reports of the four negroes being sighted at various places. Leaders said they were convinced the negroes, Tom Robertson and his sons, Esau, Ollie and John, have fled into Mississippi.

Those killed early today were an unidentified negro in the railway station at Natchez, Miss., and a negro woman, whose husband, James Eyer, failed to heed a command of a posse to bring his automobile to a stop on a road near the Alabama-Mississippi state line.

The previous death list included: Grover Boyd, white, storekeeper; Charlie Marra, a white farmer; John Robertson, negro, brother of Tom; Jacob Robertson.

Natchez was killed after he had fired at the possemen and wounded Clarence Bush, of Emelle, in the elbow. Bush returned the fire, killing the negro. Members of the posse said they had found the negro in the station house and had sought to search him. Instead of complying with orders to raise his hands he opened fire.

Eyer apparently became panic-stricken when ordered to halt. Shots were fired in an effort to halt him and as the machine rolled to a stop other occupants of the car fled. It was then discovered that the woman had been killed.

State law enforcement officers sent here yesterday by Governor Bibb Graves from Montgomery, were kept busy today tracing down reports that the negroes sought had been captured. Possemen also drove hurriedly to various points but as the day passed the conviction grew that the negroes had fled the country.

Late this afternoon a few bands continued the search, but they gave indications that they too would abandon the hunt by nightfall.

The trouble had its inception the afternoon of July 4 in an argument between Esau Robertson and Clarence Boyd, nephew of Grover Boyd, who took a battery he had sold the negro from the car when he could not pay for it. The negro later appeared at Grover Boyd's store and asked to talk to Clarence.

When the younger Boyd went outside he was attacked by Esau, his father and brothers. Grover Boyd, running to his nephew's aid, was shot down from behind by Jacob, but the other negroes fled. Jacob was held in custody by a crowd that gradually grew as word of the shooting spread and that night he was taken to the woods and hanged by the mob.

Sheriff W. D. Scales and deputies, arriving later, took up the search with many of the mob joining them. At the home of John Robertson, brother of Tom, they asked to search the house and were met with gunfire. The fire was returned and John was killed. John's fire dropped Marra and wounded Jim Ayers, another white man, in the cheek. Enraged, the mob applied a torch to the Robertson house and the search began in earnest. Rewards of $300 for the capture of each of the four negroes wanted in connection with the slayings were offered late yesterday by Governor Graves from Montgomery.

DEFIER OF FALLS
STIFLES IN BARREL

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., July 6.—(AP)—George Stathakis was found dead today in the barrel in which he yesterday navigated the rapids above Niagara Falls and plunged over the cataract. Death was due to suffocation, said Coroner W. W. Thompson, of Niagara Falls, Ontario.

The barrel was sighted today by Canadian officials at the Canadian end of Falls View bridge, the first structure below the falls. The barrel was afloat, bumping against the rocks, but was intact.

William Hill, veteran riverman, who was to have met Stathakis, a chef at the end of his trip, led a group which towed the barrel ashore. The cumbersome craft weighs more than a ton.

Belated Rains
Are Due Today,
Forecast Says

Atlanta sweltered through Sunday, borrowing what little relief it could from the weather man's prediction that the northern portion of Georgia would receive a few thundershowers today. Officially, the thundershowers are to be scattered and the more they scatter over the city the greater will be the welcome.

Except for the probability of the showers, the day is scheduled to be fair with no appreciable drop in the temperatures.

Sunday's temperature range was from 74 to 96 degrees.

Charles Collier Dies
At Decatur Residence

Charles Collier, 63, a resident of Decatur for 25 years, died at his residence, 133 Barry street, Decatur, early today.

Samaritan of Molokai Is Ill After Years Among Lepers

HONOLULU, July 6.—(AP)—Irish Dutton, bearing the ecclesiastical name of Brother Joseph and known as the "Samaritan of Molokai," rested here today at St. Francis hospital, a feeble, broken man.

In 1886, a comparatively young man, Brother Joseph went to the little leper village of Kalaheo, on the island of Molokai. He labored among the colony's inmates for 44 years and surrendered his cloistered life only when health board officials obtained his promise to come to Honolulu for medical attention.

Why he chose the secluded colony has never been learned. To Brother Joseph it is a secret of which he never speaks, but he will undergo an operation on his eyes.

Brother Joseph arrived from Molokai yesterday by steamer, so weak he was carried from the boat to his automobile. His failing eyesight prevented him from seeing the city which he last saw 44 years ago.

Brother Joseph was born in Ireland in 1842. April 27, 1843, he enlisted in 1861 as a private in company B, 13th Wisconsin infantry, for service in the Civil War. He won promotions to the rank of captain.

After the war he aided the government in collecting and burying the bodies of fallen comrades. He devoted years to assisting comrades who came out of the war broken in health and unable to earn a living.

He settled in Tennessee and became successful in business, leading an active social life. Suddenly he dropped his worldlyness and turned to holiness. He joined the Catholic church, entering the Trappist monastery at Gethsemane, Ky.

Two years later, while in Louisiana, he heard of the sacrifices of Father Damien among the lepers of Molokai Island. A few months later he was on his way to the colony.

Three years after his arrival at Molokai Brother Joseph took up the work of administering the colony. By scrupulous care and cleanliness Brother Joseph managed to escape the dread disease to which he ministered. Age and his constant labors, however, appear finally to have gained the upper hand. Brother Joseph is 87.

ly Sunday morning after an illness of several months.

Mr. Collier was well known in Decatur and was an active and prominent member of the First Methodist church of that city. Funeral services will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of A. S. Turner with the Rev. Horace Smith and the Rev. J. D. Milton officiating.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Lawrence Collier; three daughters, Mrs. H. E. McCormick, of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. Ella Rhee Shoupe and Miss Louise Collier, of Decatur; two brothers, B. F. and J. E. J. Collier; three sisters, Mrs. Sarah Argo, Mrs. Will Johnson, and Mrs. Homer Crockett.

illeg of building up its relative strength."

The pact, he asserted, "is a logical, moderate step toward the ideal of armaments for police power only."

"It preserves for another six years," he continued, "the principle that permanent peace can be established only by progressive efforts to stifle competitive armaments. It is worth much in its proof of the fact that the three great naval powers of the world, through their governments, have made a further advance in their common will for peace."

The Navy League's statement said the 5-5-3 ratio adopted at the Washington conference as the basis for the national naval policy "is abandoned" in the 1930 pact, as is the freedom of selection of types of ships best suited for its needs, under the provision cutting for building by the United States of small-gun cruisers "in excess of the amount hitherto approved in our naval policy."

"The ominous suggestion of progressive abandonment of our relative fleet strength, and the debasement of its efficiency by developing types of comparatively limited use to us, is a matter of grave concern," the league said, adding:

"The strongest argument in favor of the treaty from the American viewpoint is that it puts a curb on further tonnage expansion by Britain and Japan, while we may build up toward them. The treaty, however, does not assure this result because its escape clause may be involved to initiate unlimited construction in one or more of the several auxiliary categories."

SEAL THE NAVAL TREATY.

If the enemies of the London naval treaty, to be taken up today in a special senate session, were not convinced that the people want and expect its ratification, they would not be demanding delay and time to go out and spread jingo propaganda against it.

There is no apparent need for postponing prompt discussion and action upon this great agreement of the greater naval powers to limit sea armaments, promote naval police parity between them, establish a virtual concordat of peace between them, and relieve their tax-ridden people of billions of needless naval expenditures.

The treaty was fourteen weeks in the making. Practically every salient fact of its construction was reported as the negotiations proceeded. The treaty has been examined by our most expert international legislators on the foreign relations committee of the senate and they have, with practical unianimity, reported it favorably. There appears, then, no persuasive argument for delaying its consideration and ratification. To subject it to a long jabberwock debate with the hope to poison it with suspicions
is neither good sense or patriotism.

The charge that the treaty puts in jeopardy the naval security of the nation is fully rebutted by the character of the Americans who signed it for their countrymen. It is presuming grossly upon the ignorance and credulity of the people to tell them that President Hoover, Secretaries Stimson and Adams, Senators Reed and Robinson, and Ambassador Dawes, would sit around a conference table anywhere in Christendom and consent that Great Britain, or Japan, or both of them, should third-rate this country and make it
the impotent victim of their future designs. Yet just that is what the anti-treaty minority of senators and moribund, gouty admirals are trying to make the people believe.

It is reliably counted that there is a clear and formidable majority of senators now in favor of ratifying
the treaty. It is their duty to go ahead now and do it. They have no call to allow a filibuster to postpone an action they are convinced the people want promptly completed, and if it demands the cloture to shut off a turgid stream of jingo talk in the senate by a bucking minority, then let the cloture be applied. The people will approve it.

The ratification of the treaty by the United States is that which will give it life and power. Rejected by this country, it dies. And its death would inevitably discourage further efforts to secure international naval peace for generations to come, so that patriotism and humanity will join hands by its ratification.

THE REMEDY.

Lynchings in the south for the first six months of 1936 increased by more than 100 per cent over those for the same period of 1929,
according to the semi-annual report of the Tuskegee institute.

While the fact that there have already been nine lynchings this year, as compared with four last year, is discouraging to every citizen who has the proper regard for the good name and reputation of the south, this year's record is far better than those of the years prior to 1924, when the recent steady diminution in lynchings started.

In the first six months of 1923
there were 15 lynchings; for the same period of 1922 there were 30, and the total reached 36 in the first half of 1921. As deplorable and inexcusable, therefore, as has been the taking of nine lives by mob law so far this year there is certainly no indication of a lessening in the condemnatory public attitude, or vigilance of our peace officers, which have been responsible for the steady decline from the high figures of 1921.

Coincident with the announcement of the Tuskegee report, comes a news dispatch, telling of the single-handed dispersing of a mob by the sheriff of Beaumont, Texas. According to this report, this officer of the law did not wait behind barred doors until the temper of the mob had gotten beyond bounds, but instead left the protection of his jail and delivered a fistic attack upon the leader of the crew of hoodlums who were assaulting the jail.

The result was that this "leader"
promptly decamped—and with him
the mob.

Were more of our peace officers
thus faithful and fearless in the performance of their duties, lynchings would soon disappear.

THE DEEP COTTON PLUMP.

Unless there shall come a large advance in the market price of cotton before the growing crop is harvested and passes out of the hands of the growers there will be a great loss to their debt-paying and purchasing power throughout the whole cotton belt of the south.

At present the market price is $24 per bale below what it was a year ago. With no wide disaster to the growing plants the probable crop is estimated at around 13,- 000,000 bales. If the $24 a bale loss continues and gets no worse,
the general loss from last year's returns will be in excess of $300,- 000,000. That is a tremendous depression to put upon a single sectional industry, and one upon which the plain living and comfort of millions of families depends absolutely.

And when one asks, "What can be done about it?" the financiers,
the economists, the government experts of the agricultural department and the federal farm board shake their heads and remain mute.

Those observers of the course of events who do venture to speak out only the one word "overproduction." And the deduction from that is that no one can help the cotton grower but himself.

Which brings the subject back to the long advocated and generally rejected policy of the farmer raising his home supplies as his first and imperative business. Glad all farmers done that this year the impending loss on the cotton crop could be borne without great distress.

THE PROHIBITION IMPASSE.

The president and the attorney general are both acutely concerned to secure the full co-operation of the states to aid them in the enforcement of the national prohibition laws. They have practically admitted that without such aid their task will be extremely difficult, if not plainly impossible.

Their theory that under the terms of the 18th amendment, to-wit: "The congress and the several states shall have concurrent power
to enforce this article by appropriate legislation," it is the bounden duty of each state to enact and execute appropriate legislation to back up the congressional legislation, seems academically a correct one.

But both the president and the attorney general appear to lack a right understanding of why that "concurrent power" provision was put into the prohibition amendment before it was submitted to the states by the congress. They do not seem to know that the object of it was not to reinforce congressional legislation, but to enable a state to enforce prohibition within its jurisdiction in the event that congress should fail to provide and enforce it in such state. The provision was only argued for to the end that a state's right to have prohibition should not be nullified by an inaction of the congress and the federal power.

Five states do not employ that "concurrent power" and there is no authority in the federal government to compel them to do so! The other forty-three states seem generally willing to "let Uncle Sam do it" or fall down on the job without either their "aid or consent."
The result is a policy of unenforced prohibition. Queer, but true!

One of the wettest members of congress wears the suggestive name of Celler.

Hoover is figuring whether he will "go west" this summer or after March 4, 1937.

Japan knows what she wants, and also usually knows how to get it.

seen in this season's female bathing suits.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Singular
Law.

A bill has been introduced in the French chamber of deputies, which,
if passed, will make it compulsory over France to proceed to a scientific medical verification of death before burial can take place. It appears, from the preamble of the bill, that the number of cases of "apparent death" is on the increase, and it is to prevent "the terrible agony of those buried by mistake" that the bill will in all likelihood become law. Several instances are cited from distant and recent history in support of the measure. There is, for instance, the case of the Abbe Donat, who fell into a complete state of lethargy on the day of his ordination. Medical men, summoned in all haste, pronounced the abbe dead and his funeral was ordered.
Three days later, when the body lay before the altar and clerics were chanting the office of the dead, the abbe suddenly awoke and sat up in his coffin. He lived for many years and died at the age of 89, cardinal-archbishop of Bordeaux and senator of the Gironde department. A rider to the legislative measure under consideration advocates cremation, but it is not clear whether this is recommended on the ground of hygiene, or to spare
the dead who is not really dead, the agony of worrying too long over his unavoidable predicament. As might be expected, the French newspaper writers find in this bill a subject for a good deal of banter and hilarity. One gentleman says that "henceforth we will have death guaranteed by the government."

Unreckoned and Unrewarded.
And perhaps no soldiers who ever upheld the flag, made fame and wealth for the nation, and changed
the face of world order, as did these Spanish War veterans go so long un-reckoned as national contributors and unrewarded for their services and sufferings. It was ten years after they were mustered out of their ranks
that they obtained the scantest consideration from the congress of their country. And it was not until this year of grace, 1936, that the congress
found the spirit and courage to do justice to them by overriding the veto of President Hoover and giving them comparative pension and disability ratings with the long-time pensioners who served more or less in the Union armies of the War Between the States.

Were wolf
At Bouteaux.

Everybody in rural Brittany knows that the werewolf roams about on certain nights and joins his horrible howling to the blustering storms from the northwest. Many there be, mostly old folks, who have seen the monster with their own eyes. Unfortunately these same witnesses are never very communicative on the werewolf subject, no matter how eagerly they may be inclined to bubble and chatter
on other local items of interest.

Many are the investigators who have weird and occult who have attempted to bring a little light into this dark subject. Is the werewolf a real wolf, as the learned Boce maintained 300
years ago, a real wolf, whom the devil is "tormenting and pushing to commit an act of tragedy," or is it the devil himself, conveniently disguised in wolf's clothing, "to disturb the peaceful slumbers of Christian people,"
the hypothesis of Jean Wier, physician of the Duke of Cleve, who flourished many years ago. The question has never been satisfactorily settled. Therefore, when the young curate of Bouteaux, who incidentally, is an anti-werewolf, is called upon to preach in a purely French parish, recently informed us, by letter that a case of werewolf had been reported in his commune, and that the villagers
had actually seen a mysterious shape flitting about after dark in the un-lit streets and by-ways of the place and there was added an invitation to come and help in the delivery of the ancient burg, we went thither, armed with a fine German pistol, picked up many years ago somewhere on the far-flung battle line as the newspapers were wont to say. Midnight in the hour of werewolves as well of witches and sorcerers, of course. And to be sure, promptly at the last stroke of that ghastly hour, something was seen to move in the graveyard upon which the curate's study looks out.
A restless shade leaving the tomb?
We were soon to find out. Deceasedly and that the apparition move about in the cemetery and picking up the way cautiously between the tombstones, the pistol ridiculously poised in anticipation, we came near enough to the apparition move about. I happened to knock my foot against a stone. Upon this there was an unearthly scream. Somehow, God forgive me, the gun went off. Was there a pitiful wailing. Rushing over and flashing a lantern we found an old woman, holding up her hands in the blasphemous gesture of the curate reassured her. Was she hurt? Thank heaven, she wasn't.
What was she doing there then at that unusual hour? The story came later when she found her tongue back with the aid of a little wine at the presbytery. She had been gathering herbs from the graves of young girls. Why? We know. We know? Her son and daughter-in-law married these 10 years, had no children. To whom was the family property to descend in later years? "Such ignorance," didn't she know? The herbs had to be picked at midnight?

Sermons To Live By

CAUSE AND EFFECT.
Text: "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved." Matthew 24:13.

Text: "Be thou faithful unto death,
and I will give thee a crown of life."
Rev. 2:10.

Our text is to the end is the cause, salvation is the effect; fidelity unto death is the cause, a crown of life is the effect.

The essence of wisdom in the conduct of human life is to learn, if you wish the effect, pay attention to the cause.

In a way, you live from within and project your forces of personality and life outward from the origins.
The fundamentals of things, I can conduct his life philosophically.

And to live otherwise is to live without rootage, is to be as it were a ship without a keel, subject to every shifting current and every veering breeze or wind of circumstance, influence or event.

Our text is the loftiest application to the old-fashioned virtue of perseverance.

In every realm, high or low, good or bad, "Perseverance is the legal tender note for success."

Give heed to the parable of the diamonds as set forth by an unknown writer:

"Diamonds are only chunks of coal that have been put through the mill of fire. If they had not been put through the mill of fire, they would be as good as us. Where would the diamonds be?"

"It isn't the fact of making a start,
it's the sticking that counts. I'll say it's the fellow that knows not the meaning of fail."

But hammers and hammers away.

"Whenever you think you've come to the end,
And you're beaten as bad as can be,
Remember the diamonds are chunks
of coal."

That stuck to their jobs, you see!"

The homely virtue of perseverance is just as truly the builder of a diamond destiny, in realms spiritual and eternal, as it is in those that are material and temporal. It is the virtue of the diamond. It is the virtue of the diamond. It is the virtue of the diamond. It is the virtue of the diamond.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

Georgia's Gallant Spanish War Veterans
Are Meeting at Macon Today.

Today the Georgia veterans of the Spanish-American War hold their annual convention at Macon for two days.

As chaplain of the Georgia department of the United Spanish War Veterans and chaplain-in-chief of the National and Military Order of the Spanish-American War, it is my pleasure to be with them, and it is always one of the most pleasing of my obligations.

This country has never had from its beginning finer, sturdier and more devoted soldiers under its flag than those men of 1898 who answered the call of President McKinley and volunteered to vindicate American principles and restore national freedom upon a sovereign down-trodden people not of our blood and kin.

Unreckoned and Unrewarded.

The Magnitude of Their War.

Because the actual fighting against the Spanish empire was fast, furious and soon finished, there were some stay-at-home bravadoes who called it "our littlest war" and would have had the people think of it in terms of ridicule rather than of gratitude.

Let it be called "our littlest war," but the fact can never be erased from history that it was the greatest war
in practical results that the American people have won since their revolution to gain their independence.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

BY DR. S. PARKES CADMAN.

For the wreck of my home and dreams of future happiness with her, I am sure that my boy who is now with me—and other children
I thought she also wanted? Life to me has turned into a mockery
and swindle. As for compensation,
I can see about as much as I can right or is it that my eyes are so blinded with suffering I cannot see clearly?

cannot say that I accept every condition of "statute" in Emerson's fine essay on "Compensation." But indeed you have read it, and it contains enough truth for your sad situation to warrant you in rereading
it. Good and evil are usually slow in their manifestations. In your case the rule is reversed. This needless tragedy fell on you like a bolt from the clear blue sky. Your beautiful life, your beautiful and capable Englishwoman, who only a short
time ago left me and her four year-old son, and is now living in penury with a man I formerly employed in a subordinate capacity in business and discharged because I believed he was a gigolo, leave me as I find compensation.

London, England.
While at Nice a short time ago
I read several of your replies to correspondents. I have always supposed there were compensations of every sorrow in a man's life until I suffered a great loss,
that of my wife's young, beautiful, intelligent and capable Englishwoman, who only a short
time ago left me and her four

penury with a man I formerly em-

Lack of Hair is so Unnecessary

Fifteen years ago the man who found himself becoming bald was helpless to prevent it. He tried a lot of highly perfumed, so-called tonics which usually did more harm than good.

Today baldness is treated in a sensible, scientific way by The Thomas, scalp experts who have made it a life study. Only a specialist who understands, who is qualified to distinguish abnormal scalp troubles and scalp disorders can give you permanent relief.

The Thomas' World Famous Hair and Scalp Specialists are correcting baldness and promoting hair growth in thousands of cases because the right scientific treatment is applied to each particular case.

Scalp examination is free—no obligation—come in today.

'Not Damaged' Heads Enjoyable Bill at Fox

LOIS MORAN and Walter Byron in "Not Damaged," Fox grand orchestra, Enrico Leide conducting. On the stage, Fanchon and Marco idea, "Ivory," etc. Feature picture begins at 7:22, 7:47 and 10:12, and act at 2:11, 4:42, 7:07 and 9:32.

"Not damaged" develops into a laughable and thoroughly enjoyable comedy of the light dramatic kind. The story is hackneyed—Cinderella-behind-the-counter meets Prince Charming—but the situations are novel and the dialog witty and clever.

Lois Moran plays well as Gwen Stewart, the shop girl, but the real credit for the picture should go to Walter Byron, opposite her in the role of a playboy of New York. Robert Ames and Inez Courtney contribute several sparkling moments to the play.

The "Ivory" idea has more the atmosphere of vaudeville than most of the conceptions of Fanchon and Marco, some of which have been more like revues than is usual in houses doing four a day. It includes several good numbers, Austin and Fae, a comedy team; the Four High Hatters, tap dancers, and others. The chorus of 10 sun-kissed girls demonstrate prowess on pianos in an excellent act. Eleven—there is one other one—pianos in concert is unusual.

Betty Lou Webb acts as mistress of ceremonies, with Mel Ruick and his musicians moved for the week into the pit.

The musical program is exceptionally pleasing. Dwight Brown at the organ gives a program of Franz Schubert's melodies, and the grand orchestra, under Enrico Leide, playing selections from "The Student Prince."

Paramount Features Thrilling Byrd Picture

"WITH BYRD AT THE SOUTH POLE" is the Paramount feature picture for the week. Show starts at 11 and feature at 12:01, 2:31, 5:01, 7:31 and 10:21. On the stage is a Public show, "The Valentine Parade," a comedy sketch and news reels.

Shivers! And then some more shivers.

Hurricanes of snow and rivers of ice. Topographical spectacles unlike anything you ever saw and unlike anything anybody else ever saw until Rear Admiral Byrd and his crew set up Little America and the doughty admiral, after patiently waiting for flying weather, soared away with Bernt Balchen at the controls and one of Paramount's crack cameramen aboard and sailed over the south pole to drop an American flag, tied to a stone taken from the graveside of Floyd Bennett.

Out of many hundreds of feet of film, Paramount has cut and cut until a picture of better than an hour's duration has been constructed. It is a gripping production, with a note of pathos and a touch of comedy, but standing out above everything is the thrilling proof that heroes, contrary to an adage, do not necessarily have to have the situation created by others in order for them to strut their stuff. "Dick" Byrd, once master of the Dolphin when Joe Daniels ran the navy, planned his conquest of the pole with the precision of a schoolmaster. To say anything about the daring with which he executed his plans would be wholly superfluous. It is a very stirring picture and is excellently photographed, and will do more to stimulate genuine patriotism than all the resolutions and creeds adopted by mass meetings under the influence of wind-jamming orators who depend, for applause, upon the shopworn trick of waving the American flag.

In its stage show Paramount offers a Public feature which is well received.

—R. E. POWELL.

The Vagabond King Returns at Empire

The stirring notes of the "Song of the Vagabonds" will ring out once more, and the pleasing melody of "Only a Rose" will float again from an Atlanta theater. This time from the cool and comfortable Empire theater, corner of Georgia avenue and Crew street, when today and Tuesday the screen feature will be Paramount's "The Vagabond King," starring Dennis King and Jeanette MacDonald.

This is the same film which was recently shown at a downtown theater at top prices, and Manager Alpha Fowler looks forward to handling capacity audiences during the two-day run of "The Vagabond King" at his VACATION SEASON...

Boom Days For Burglars

WHY not eliminate all risk of having your valuables stolen or burned while you are away on vacation this summer?

Securities, deeds, insurance policies, personal papers, chests of silverware, heirlooms, jewelry—put them far from hazard. You could not replace some of them if lost and no insurance can cover their sentimental or personal value.

Here at the Citizens and Southern National are modern safe deposit and storage vaults—fire and burglar-proof. They will accommodate all your valuables—large or small—and the cost ranges from a fraction of a cent a day upward according to the space needed.

TRAMPLING ART FOR PROFITS

FOR all its virtues, modern industrialism can run amuck under the spur of greed for profits.
Witness, the ruin threatening the Art of Music.

300 musicians in Hollywood supply
all the "music" offered in thousands of theatres. Can such a tiny reservoir of talent nurture artistic progress?

The true function of the machine is to increase the value of the product fed into it—not to debase it. Therefore mechanical music, as a substitute for Living Music, is a spurious form of progress—Like a loom converting good wool into shoddy.

The grind organ, however operated,
is a grind organ still. For music is an emotional art, a form of social intercourse, and hence dependent upon human contact.

TWO PERSONS KILLED AS AUTOS COLLIDE

THOMASVILLE, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—
Two Florida women, Mrs. D. B. Byrd, of Monticello, and Mrs. Janie B. Davidson, of Quincy, and Jesse Akridge, of Camilla, Ga., were killed in an automobile collision near Camilla this afternoon.

Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Byrd were en route to Albany and Akridge was coming toward Camilla when the cars hit head on. Two negro children, only witnesses to the accident, said that Akridge turned to pass another car
and struck the women's automobile.

Mrs. Davidson died en route to a hospital here and Mrs. Byrd died later. Akridge, 38-year-old road foreman of Mitchell county, also died here.

Both automobiles were completely wrecked.

The Akridge car caught fire after the collision and was partly consumed, the flames being extinguished by the Camilla fire department.

According to reports brought here
the accident occurred when Akridge tried to pass another automobile and ran head-on into the car in which the Florida women were riding.

Akridge was badly burned.

Mrs. Davidson, formerly Miss Janie Bird, of Monticello, Fla., was the widow of John Davidson, of Quincy, Fla., former postmaster there.

Mrs. Bird is the widow of Daniel
B. Bird, Jr., and mother of County
Judge Thomas R. Bird, of Monticello, Fla.

Both women are about 65 years of age, and members of north Florida's oldest and most prominent families.

AUTO WRECK VICTIMS IN CRITICAL CONDITION

MACON, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—While preparations were being made today for the funerals of George T. Woodall, 33, and his four-month-old son, Henry Doyle Woodall, victims of a freight automobile crash at the lower Elm street crossing Saturday night, another son and a daughter of Mr. Woodall were in a critical condition at a local hospital.

Mrs. Woodall, the mother, who suffered a broken nose and lacerations of the face, was improving, although upset by the shock. Alice Vonelle Woodall, 3, was "near death" tonight
from head injuries, according to hospital attaches, and George Talmadge Woodall, Jr., 6, was in a serious condition.

Coroner Martin J. Thompson will conduct an inquest into the deaths at 10 o'clock Monday morning. The bodies will be sent from Macon at 3:15 o'clock tomorrow morning to Phenix City, Ala., for funerals and interment.

Extra freight train No. 631, from Griffin, rushed down on the Elm street crossing, near Telfair street, shortly before 9 o'clock Saturday night and the engine struck the rear of a sedan car in which Mr. and Mrs.
Woodall and their three children were riding. The car was twisted and distorted and pilot was torn from the locomotive. Volunteers rushed the victims to the hospital.

The Woodalls were here on a visit to relatives.

The scene of Saturday's tragedy and a crossing at Telfair street, about 100 yards away, have been the stages
for several deaths from similar accidents. Among the fatalities in this vicinity were J. J. Cobb and J. L.
Jesp, real estate men, who were killed at the Telfair street crossing 10 or 12 years ago.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN IN POULTRY INDUSTRY

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 6.—County Agent R. E. Miller reports that a survey of the county shows that this year there is 40 per cent more purebred layers in preparation for fall laying than last year.

It is indicated that the fall and winter poultry business of Lowndes county this year will show a substantial increase.

State Deaths And Funerals

FUNERAL OF W. S. MOORE.
WATKINS, Ala., July 6.—Funerals
will be held in Wilmington Monday afternoon for William S. Moore, prominent railroad man of that city who died in a Waycross hospital Saturday after an illness of several days.

Mr. Moore, a member of the Masons, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Primitive Baptist church is survived by his widow; two sons, W. S. Jr., and Sheldon Moore; his parents, Mr. and Mrs.
C. Moore; two brothers and five sisters, all of North Carolina.

HEAVY REGISTRATION REPORTED AT SHORTER

ROME, Ga., July 6.—Advanced registration for the 1930-31 session of Shorter college is double that of last year at this time, it was announced here today by Dr. W. D. Furry, president of the college.

Belief was expressed by Dr. Furry that this great increase in advanced registration is indicative of a reawakened interest in colleges for women.

Enrollment at Shorter college ranged from 200 to 225 last session, and if this present pace of registration continues the college officials look for an enrollment in 1930-31 well beyond last year's figures.

A series of monographs outlining the advantages offered by the woman college has been prepared by Shorter college. These monographs are being mailed to many persons throughout Georgia, and they set forth, among other things, that, in attending a woman's college, a girl is "a somebody on the campus"; that she takes part in all college activities; helps run the various campus organizations, and develops her qualities of leadership, individuality and initiative.

Dr. Furry and his administrative staff are now busy preparing for the opening of the next session on September 10, and plans call for the handling of a record-breaking enrollment.
Residence halls are being rehabilitated and set in order for the influx of girls in the fall.

COMPANY 'A' WINS FT. SCREVEN AWARD

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 6.—(AP)—
Company A, commanded by Captain H. B. Wheeler, won first place as the best drilled company, Saturday
at the C. M. T. C., at Fort Screven, Ga., attended principally by Florida trainees. The first platoon of Company A was designated the best drilled platoon. Three two places were taken among the rifle units.

With the machine guns, the machine gun company won first place, and the second squad of the second platoon was adjudged the best drilled squad machine gun company.

Individually there were four trainees
selected for the awards of first place in their respective classes. They were: Calvert P. Sheldon, St. Petersburg, Fla., basic; Robert M. Lenz, Tampa, Fla., red; Joseph L. Burrows,
Lake Wales, Fla., white; John E.
Rountree, Frost Proof, Fla., blue.

Among the blue trainees there was close competition for the first place.
The winner, John E. Rountree, is cadet major of the student battalion.

STATSBORO MAN HELD IN SHOOTING AFFRAY

STATSBORO, Ga., July 6.—(AP)
Palmer Lanier was in jail here today charged with shooting Walter Roach in the leg Saturday night after conservation that followed search by Roach and his brother Charles for a pet goat. Roach was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Lanier says that one of the Roach brothers fired first.

The Roach brothers, who now live in Savannah, recently prosecuted with the burning of several houses Atkins and Montz Lanier, brothers of Palmer, and Gordon Lanier and Millard Jones for arson in connection and Atkins Lanier are now in prison.

Great Guns! How Interesting

if you would have the assurance of absolutely safe refrigeration

ICE

WITH ICE as the cold maker "on guard" there is no possible chance of anything ever "happening" within the refrigerator—no petty annoyances to upset the tranquillity of the home or place of business or, what is far more important, no serious mishaps likely to jeopardize health.

ICE stands in a class by itself as a refrigerant that works unaided by outside energy (electricity or gas) and that furnishes adequate "cold" without depending on gas-forming chemicals—sulphur dioxide, ammonia, methyl or ethyl chloride.

MOTHERS need feel no concern or fear when the children play around an iced refrigerator or even when they explore its chilly depths. The family refrigerator attracts the youngsters. Make yours a safe playground by using ice.

ICE through many generations has a record unblemished by a single accident or mishap. It is 100% SAFE. Think THAT over!

Little Blast Victim's Body Is Recovered

NEPTUNE, N. J., July 6.—(AP)—Firemen today recovered the body of Dolores Renna, 2 months old, from the wreckage of the fireworks plant of Frank Cimino, which exploded last night on the outskirts of the city, killing four persons and injuring three others.

The bodies of the other three victims, Consiglio Cimino, 70, father of the owner of the plant; Frank Cimino, Jr., 11 months old, and Millie Cimino, 9, children of the owner, were taken from the burning ruins last night.

Mrs. Mary Cimino, wife of Frank, is in the hospital with serious burns.

Police were told the explosion occurred when Millie Cimino threw a lighted firecracker into a pan of powder that the elder Cimino was mixing. Mrs. Nancy Renna, 24, mother of the children, picked up the two infants and ran from the building but a terrific explosion threw her to the ground and tore the children from her grasp. Mrs. Renna was not seriously hurt. Cimino had been making fireworks in his home factory for 18 years and specialized in large displays. The basement was filled with powder which caused three explosions.

Thugs 'Knock' Safe For Empty Cash Box

Thugs who "knocked" the safe of the Bamboo Bottling Company, at 308 Whitehall street, early Sunday, drew a blank, police reported. J. R. Stevenson, manager of the plant, had removed all money the night before, and the would-be thieves, after prying open the strong box, gazed into an empty money drawer. A small amount of cash in a desk near the safe was overlooked.

Home Run in Sixth Frame Gives Lookouts Win Over Crackers BOBBY EQUALS PAR TWICE AT INTERLACHEN

LOOKOUTS WIN OVER CRACKERS BY 6-4 SCORE Eddie Kenna Hits Homer With Two on in Sixth.

Morrison, Hearn Report This Week John Dewey (Jughandle) Morrison, recently released by the Spiller field today or Tuesday to talk over terms with the Crackers. If they prove acceptable he will sign. Hearn, left-hander, who pitched purchased Saturday from Baltimore, is also expected to report for duty Tuesday. The Crackers, who held to their 500 average despite a defeat Sunday, open a series in Birmingham today.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 6.—A team can't win ball games by letting the opposition make three runs every time it gets two.

Atlanta went out in front with two runs in the first half of the second inning, and Chattanooga made three in its half. The Crackers pushed over two more in the first half of the sixth, and the Lookouts came right back with three.

Incidentally it was a terrific smash from the bat of Eddie Kenna, Lookout catcher, which sailed into the left field stands with two of the paths occupied when accounted for the last three markers and won the ball game.

Atlanta was leading, 4 to 3, and Chick Howard, the erstwhile Lookout, had two men down. Chick had relieved Joe Keifer in the second when four Lookouts hit sent over three runs, and Chick had been showing them right down the alley with plenty on, a thing to which he was much unaccustomed when he toiled in a Lookout uniform.

MATES FORGOTTEN. In the third, fourth and fifth he had handled his former mates unmercifully. Jones and Horn had gone out in the sixth and the situation looked more dangerous than that dark brown taste the morning after. But Cliff Lamotte, who had been in the pen, and sprinted down to second. Charlie Bates drew a walk.

Eddie came along, fouled one, heard one called, meanwhile watching a pair of wild ones, then smashed a fast one squarely on the nose. It cleared the rail along the old stands with plenty to spare.

Lamotte had walked with one down in the second and the first on right. Bolton lost the ball completely and it fell in front of him, then rolled to the fence. Cliff ran after it, and caught his foot under the fence and a mate had to come out and pull him loose. Meanwhile Bobby scored and Luke stopped at third. Polvogt sent a sacrifice fly to deep center, Luke coming in.

LOOKOUTS DO THEIR. Horn started the Lookout half with a single, then Rosenthal robbed Bolton with a great catch. Bates fired a three-batter to right and scored when Kenna drove one through Lamotte in the third. Wallie Dashiell drove Kenna in and Keifer out with a whack to center. That was all until the sixth.

Rosenthal lifted an easy one to right and Bolton missed it. Mule Shirley sent a scorch to center which went for two bases. Frank Walker came over and took the ball going away from him and made a great throw to hold Shirley on. Two went out, then Appling got a clean single to left, scoring Shirley.

Then came the Lookouts' half and Kenna's homer. A crowd of more than 5,000 witnessed the game and celebrated the installation of a set of loud speakers in Engle stadium.

Walter Hagen, king of the professionals, is doped as a strong possibility for the national open crown, up for play at Interlachen starting Thursday. He has recently returned from a trip through the "down under" countries and is reported as being in his best form.

YOUTHS CONTEST SOUTHERN TITLE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 6.—(AP)—The forty-fifth annual Southern tennis tournament, starting here July 7, will rest largely in the hands of the young.

Leading the pack of youngsters will be Bryan Grant, Jr., Atlanta, who at 20 will defend a title he already has won three times. A fast field, comprised mostly of boys his own age, will seek to take it from him.

Grant's stiffest opposition probably will come from the new national intercollegiate champion, Clifford Sutter, of Tulane University. Sutter recently at Philadelphia overpowered Julius Seligson, of Lehigh, to win the crown.

Sutter, with his partner, Dan Murray, of New Orleans, also will defend a doubles championship won the past two successive tournaments.

Others in the march of the young are Wilmer Hines, University of South Carolina freshman and former southern junior champion, playing his last season as a juvenile; Don Crum of Nashville, erstwhile intercollegiate champion of Dixie, and his brother, Kendal, former national indoor boys champion; Gus Feuer, of Miami, Fla., "Lefty" Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Teddy Burwell, of Charlotte, N. C., and Maurice Bayon, of New Orleans.

Jack Mooney, of Atlanta, is chief among the veterans. Grant has little trouble in beating his fellow townsman, however, since he started winning championships.

Fourteen teams were represented among the 105 entrants in the tournament.

Bryan Grant, Jr., of Atlanta, three times winner of the tournament, was seeded first in the draw tonight and was matched in his initial round tomorrow against Percy Parker, of Memphis.

Hines Defeats Reese for Title. MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 6.—(AP)—Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., youth marched through to his fifth tournament championship in four weeks by defeating Bill Reese, of Atlanta, today, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1, in the singles finals of the junior tournament of the Southern Lawn Tennis Association.

George Boynton, Atlanta, Ga., retained the title of champion in boys' singles by defeating Rex Godwin, Aniston, Ala., in the finals, 6-1, 6-3.

Hines and Judge Weaver, of Gainesville, Ga., won the junior doubles by defeating Ed Sutter, of New Orleans, and Lawrence Norton, Memphis, in the finals, 6-1, 6-4, 6-0.

EXTRA SESSION SLATED TODAY AT WIMBLEDON

Finals of Men's Doubles, Postponed, Will Close Tournament.

By Frank H. King. Associated Press Sports Writer. WIMBLEDON, England, July 6.—(AP)—Like congress in extra session, Wimbledon's tennis fans will assemble tomorrow for one match—the all-American struggle for men's doubles honors, final event of the British championships.

This battle will pit Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, Wimbledon champions in 1929 and American Davis cup doubles team, in the challenge round against France last year, against the United States champions, George Lott and Johnny Doeg.

ARRANGEMENTS UPSET. Wimbledon's championships were to have closed yesterday, but Allison upset the arrangement by reaching the final round of singles where he was beaten in straight sets by Bill Tilden. The doubles were postponed until Monday to avoid the necessity of Allison playing two hard final round matches in one day.

Considerable interest is being shown concerning how large a gallery will make the trip into the London suburbs to see foreigners fight for another English title. Of the four championships so far decided the United States has won three outright and shared in the other. Not one native Englishman reached the final round, much less won a title.

Helen Wills Moody won the women's singles crown for the fourth consecutive time by beating Elizabeth Ryan, of California. Mrs. Moody and Miss Ryan won the women's doubles by beating Sarah Palfrey, of Boston, and Edith Cross, of San Francisco; declined best Allison for the men's singles title, and Miss Ryan and Jack Crawford, of Australia, defeated Daniel Pennu and Fraulin H. Krahwinkel for mixed doubles honors. Now the United States is assured of another triumph in men's doubles.

CUP PLANS HANG. The result of tomorrow's match is expected to have a material bearing on America's lineup against France in the Davis cup challenge round, reaching here tomorrow. The former record of the Americans with the integrated final against either Japan or Italy.

Tilden's Wimbledon triumph seems to assure him of an invitation to join the American team and in approaching Davis cup play the tall Philadelphia would have an opportunity to defeat his old rival, Henri Cochet, and win the Davis cup.

The American ace has taken enough beatings from Cochet's racket to want revenge. The consensus was that Tilden would have beaten Cochet almost as decisively as he trounced Allison yesterday. The big American is playing as good, or even finer, than he has at any time during his career in the opinion of many experts.

Cup Team Heads Try for Tilden. PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—(AP)—Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the United States Davis cup committee, declined today to say whether it had been decided to play the Davis cup team against the American Davis cup team, in London, the possibility of inviting Bill Tilden to become a member of the squad.

Wear said he had a "very satisfactory" conversation with Dixon, but decided to say whether it had been decided to try to persuade Tilden to join the team.

The make-up of the team will be announced Monday.

Swimmers Shatter Two More Records

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 6.—(AP)—Two more world's records were broken at the national A. U. swimming meet here today, making a meet total of seven.

Clarence Crabbe, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, defeated Maiola Kalili, Hawaiian, to win the half mile free style in 10:20.4. The former record, 10:22.2 was set by Johnny Weissmuller in 1927 at Honolulu.

Helene Madison, Seattle school girl, set her fourth world record when she won the one-half mile women's free style in 11:42.2. The old mark held by Josephine McKim, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, was 12:3.8, set in 1929. Miss McKim was second.

Leonard Spence, New York Athletic Club, bettered his brother, Walter's, American record for the 430-yard breast stroke, winning in 6:12.6. Walter set his mark of 6:15.8 in 1927.

In the women's 220-yard breast stroke Margaret Hoffman, of the Scranton (Pa.) Swimming Association, scored an upset by defeating the titleholder, Agnes Geraghty, New York Women's Swimming Association, in 3:20.

The titular match in the boys' doubles went to George Boynton, of Des Moines, Iowa, in the final of the western singles championship event today because of a cramp in his left leg. The score stood at five-all in the fifth set when the southerner was disabled.

The battle was the most brilliant of the tournament, with Sutter attempting to carry on in spite of a previous cramp. Coggeshall won the first set 6-1 but dropped the next two by scores of 6-2. Sutter weakened in the fourth and was beaten by Coggeshall in a great rally when his leg failed in the deciding set.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 6.—Where bronzed professional golfers sit and buzz in crisp monotones over the approaching national open championship, one hears the name of Walter Hagen mentioned as one certain to press Bobby Jones most closely this week-end.

It may be that hope colors the opinions of these professionals. Always they hope one of their number will be able to edge past the Atlantan in the race that means so much to them financially. They respect, if not actually fear, Bobby Jones. So they spend the days before an open tournament thumbing their lodge roster for a probable champion who can subdue the obstreperous amateur.

And, as said, it seems to be Walter Hagen who looks good to them now. Walter always is a portentous figure before these open tournaments, but of late years he has gone down quietly like a balloon tire with a slow leak when the cards are counted. Not since 1919 has Walter won. But this time, they say, Walter is ready to play his game.

JOE IS IN THE KNOW. Joe Kirkwood is the man most qualified to say just how good Hagen is now. Joe and Hagen are just back from a tour of Australia that began last March.

"Walter is hitting his shots better than he ever did in his life," Joe says. "He has been in strict training ever since we left the states."

"We got there in March, the latter part of the summer in the 'down under' country, and ran into a spell of fine weather. Walter seemed to get the feel of his shots and I have never seen him do so well. His health has been perfect and I look for him to get right up here."

"You see, Walter has been dying to win this open for years. It has become an obsession with him. He feels that the British championships he won are so much ancient history and have no value now to him professionally. He is 38 years old and imagines that time is flying. So you can look for the biggest effort Walter ever made to be put on right here this week."

Kirkwood is best known as the trick shot golfer. He came to the states from Australia several years ago with an act that made quite a furore at national championships and resulted in several exhibition tours that took him all over the country.

Joe has been a resident professional at many clubs for short periods. He was at Radium Springs, Albany, for a season, and made many friends in Georgia. But he is too restless to stay in one spot long. At present he is free lancing.

REAL HOLE IN ONE. "One cannot appreciate the marvelous feat of Kingsford-Smith in flying 4,000 miles from Honolulu to Australia until he has traveled over that big stretch of ocean in a steamer," Joe observes.

"There is not an island anywhere along the 4,000 miles. It takes a steamer eight days to do it and the unbroken stretches of water nearly drive a man wild. Honolulu itself is just a dot on the map and must have been hard for a pilot to find."

"But Kingsford-Smith found it and then flew 4,000 miles straight as a string to Suva, a pile of dirt and trees that could have been cleared away in a few days with a good steam shovel."

"That is my idea of a hole in one that amounts to something."

DUMB—OR LUCKY. Kirkwood has developed a whimsical philosophy about golf. He has reached the conclusion that to win a tournament a golfer must be either dumb or lucky. Any golfer with an imagination, any golfer who tries to think during a tournament, might as well stop right there and go on back to the clubhouse for a shower.

"Now when Gene Sarazen won at Skokie and when little Harry Cooper won that big tournament out on the coast, they did not have sense enough to get scared," Joe says. "They did not realize what a hard job it was and how one little bit of bad luck could ruin them. They just bused right on through and discovered they had the thing sewed up."

"The others knew how hard it was and kept trying to out-guess the course and wound up with a 79 when they needed a 70. Take the case of Archie Compson in the British open the other day. I'll bet he was playing the best golf of his life, just shooting away easily and smoothly with no particular mental strain. Then he got to thinking on the last round and blew sky high with a score over 80."

"The same goes for Leo Diegel; Leo has the habit of thinking hard at the wrong time, instead of just letting his game ooze out of him."

Joe's philosophy at least puts him in the midst of the intellectuals of golf, for Joe has not been able to win one of these things yet. But he is a delightful young man to talk to and any sting in his philosophical utterances is erased by his engaging manner.

Grand Sportswoman Is Mrs. Topperwine By Ralph McGill. Arthur Cascadan, who seems to turn up magically when the guns begin to sound over the traps and the pigeons to break into fine blue-gray dust and go drifting off somewhere into eternity, waxes enthusiastically about Mrs. Ad Topperwine, who will shoot in the Southeastern Divisional meet at the Atlanta Gun Club this week.

AMATEURS FIND EASTLAKE HARD IN TRIAL ROUNDS

Early Arrivals Card High Scores in Tourney Practices.

By Roy White. East Lake Country Club golf course gave early out-of-town arrivals for the annual Georgia state amateur tournament plenty of trouble during the week-end. Billy Weichselbaum, Jr., of Savannah; Kayton Smith, of Savannah, runner-up last year, and Billy McWilliams, of Rome Country Club, had scores of 78, 82 and 78, respectively.

Qualifying rounds will be played Tuesday and match play starts Wednesday.

Lee Fowler, of East Lake, and Bobby Chambers, of Druid Hills, two of the city's main threats for the crown, had the best score of the 40 players who took practices for the tournament. Fowler had two rounds of 73 each Sunday and played in the afternoon with Kayton Smith, Dean Smith and Weichselbaum, all of Savannah. Chambers had a 73 in an afternoon round.

GOOD SCORES. Fred Minnich, of Capital City Club; Julius Hughes, of Druid Hills and Tommy Barnes, of Druid Hills, have turned in good practice scores. Hughes had a 74 in a Saturday round but found trouble Sunday afternoon. Minnich had a 76 and Strickler had a 78.

One of the features of the Sunday practice rounds was McWilliams' eagle three on No. 14, a par 5, 405 yards. His drive was well up the fairway and a brassie shot was only a few feet away from the cup. He sank the putt for a three. He finished the back nine with 38 strokes.

Tommy Barnes, young 14-year-old brother of Pete Barnes, Junior Chamber of Commerce champion, had a good round of 84 Sunday afternoon, playing with R. W. Goodrich and Harry Gerlach, all James L. Key municipal players. He is probably the youngest entry for the tournament.

OPEN TODAY. East Lake course will be open to tournament entries for practice all day today and members of the club are requested to use the new course during the present week.

Despite the drought of the past three weeks, the East Lake course is in very good condition and the greens are in excellent shape. A top soil has been spread over the greens to hold the moisture and sprinklers have played over the greens constantly during the past week.

The first out-of-town entries to practice on the course were R. M. Soule and W. M. Mell, of Athens, Ga. They played in a three-hole match with Stegeman, University of Georgia athletic director, Friday afternoon.

OLIVERS DUE. Johnny Oliver, of Valdosta, present state champion; Jack, his father; Billy, Maxwell and Robert, younger brothers, are expected to arrive early today and put in practice before Tuesday. Other south Georgia arrivals are scheduled to arrive during the week.

Lovely Arnold, president of the Georgia State Golf Association, was pleased to learn that 40 golfers have already practiced on the course, an indication of a record-breaking entry this week.

Following the qualifying rounds Tuesday, the 128 low scorers will be divided into divisions of 32 each and the first round of 18 holes will be played Wednesday. The defeated 16 players in each division will form flights of 16 each and another 18-hole round will be played Thursday. Two rounds of 18 holes each will be played Friday and the finals in every flight will be played Saturday. The championship match will be over the 36-hole route.

Approximately 100 Atlantans are expected to enter the tournament and from that list there appears five or six players who are liable to cause plenty of trouble. Lee Fowler and Berrien Moore, Jr., of East Lake are "on their game" as evidenced by some recent good scores. Julius Hughes is shooting good golf as is Gene Cook, of East Lake. Pete Barnes, of West End, and Fred Minnich and Charlie Black, Jr., of Capital City.

Selma Shows Class During Week's Play

Selma, champions of the first half of the season in the Southeastern league, came through the past week with a perfect record in wins, highest in runs scored, tied with Columbus for leading honors in double plays, and limited to less scoring than any other club. This brilliant record started the Leafs off with a perfect record in standing of the loop for the latter half of the season.

Although the Tampa Smokers were only credited with seven more runs than their opponents, they won five and tied one of their eight games played. Twenty-three runs were the lowest scored in the loop, that being the record of the Montgomery Lions.

President of Tars Offers Resignation JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—John Love Wilkes, president of the Jacksonville Club of the Southeastern league baseball club, has placed his resignation in the hands of the board of directors, he announced tonight.

His resignation will be acted upon at a meeting of stockholders the latter part of the week, probably Thursday, he said in a signed statement. At this meeting, he said, "it is expected that action will be taken to ward a complete reorganization of the Jacksonville baseball club."

Trails Bobby

Cyril Tolley, the lone British threat in the national open at Minneapolis, carded a fine 74 in practice Sunday afternoon to take second place in the day's scoring. Bobby Jones, taking two par 72s, led the field. Tolley, paired with Jimmy Johnston, lost to Bobby and Don Moe.

FORT POLOISTS DOWN GUARDS

Battling under a scorching sun, Fort McPherson took a 4 to 3 decision from the Governor's Horse Guards Sunday afternoon at the Fort in a renewal of the hostilities of the two rival quartets.

Two goals were earned by each team, one penalty boosted each total, and the deciding goal came from the calk of a Fort pony.

McPherson jumped into an on-goal lead in the first chukker as Major Franke stroked a long one home. From then until the fifth chukker there was no scoring, the two teams taking their play out in futile efforts and in blocking their opponents.

Lieutenant Moran broke the ice for the Guards in the fifth chukker and P. D. Christian added another to send the Guards into the lead for a moment. The advantage disappeared as Major Franke tallied again.

A foul, committed only 15 feet from the goal in the sixth chukker by Major Franke, was conceded due to the shortness of the shot, giving the Guards the edge again.

It was the last time, however, as they were penalized one goal a moment later to send the score into a tie. The Fort McPherson took the final edge shortly after as one of the ponies kicked the ball through the posts.

The intense heat made brilliant play almost out of the question. Both players and ponies were tired as the game ended.

MAISON SHOWS WAY In Sally Loop Play Macon took the lead of the second half of the South Atlantic league as they led the past week's parade in games by winning seven and only losing one. The champions, Greenville club of the first half of the season was next with a 5-to-3 count, although the Spinners were high for the week in runs scored with 53 and high in home runs with six.

Columbia was low in runs scored while the Comers had as many scored against them as did the Spinners, and lost two of seven contests. The Charlotte Hornets were downed in six of eight battles and yet their opponents only tallied eight more runs than they did. Asheville tied the leading Peaches for double play honors with seven each.

An even break in games and runs scored went to the Augusta Wolves for the period, while they were low in double plays and tied with the Comers for the lowest in home runs; neither getting any, 233 runs were scored in the loop or an average of more than 11 markers to the game.

CYRIL TOLLEY SHOWS SKILL ON GREAT SHOT

Jones, Moe, Johnston and English Star Play Together.

By Ed Danforth. Constitution Sports Editor. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 6.—Bobby Jones came out to Interlachen today and shook hands with omnipresent Old Man Par. In fact Bobby Jones' hands with him, and both times gave the old buzzard the fraternity grip. Par here is 72; Bobby scored that figure twice.

While others who will compete with Bobby Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the national open championship were scoring high in the 70s and all the way up to 85, Bobby skidded and bumped around in what he would call rotten style and scored par twice. In the morning he had 38-34 and varied the figures in the afternoon with 37-35. It was very poor golf, of course, but then he had never met the par at Interlachen before and besides he was feeling around with trick shots and the looloo prearranged.

BOB AND DON. Bobby played with Don Moe, the child wonder, against Cyril Tolley, of England, and Harrison Johnston, who comes from the hated city of St. Paul. Tolley scored brilliantly with 74, after being all over the course with his tremendous drives and over most of the greens with his vigorous second shots. Young Moe was putting well and took a 76. Johnston was far off and had 80. A lot of Minneapolis folks, who were out to watch the fun, forgot their natural coolness toward any product of the city across the river and sympathized paternally with Harrison.

So one might say that Bobby's first look at Interlachen was right in the eye. From the way he took it today one might imagine he would run away with the crown hands this week-end. But scores have a habit of mounding when the casual touch of a sparring round is lost and a championship atmosphere prevails.

While the golf championship does not start until Thursday, the 1930 photographers' open tournament began when Bobby and his party came out on the tee. They are both amateurs and professionals. The professionals were carrying big, blunderbuss cameras and aimed them at Bobby by every time he addressed the tees. They are making pictures for the home—yes, you know, make the Sunday night visitors suffer through your vacation with you, and then run the film through backwards for a big time. The advantage of the amateurs is that they are not so big and heavy and finished in pastel leather.

ALL SHOT BOBBY. In that foursome were Tolley, the most astoundingly long driver in the game today. There was Don Moe, the boy wonder of the Walker cup team, and there was Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston, the home-town star; all famous. But all the "illiums" were saved for Bobby. As he finished each shot the rattle, buzz and click of shutters made a sound as of blue jeans pants ripping. Perhaps Bobby is in a hurry to get home; at any rate he will be either hanged by the neck or staked to a cross by the end of the week.

The open camera tournament gets larger as it progresses. In striking contrast to a golf tournament in which the number engaged becomes smaller as the final round approaches, in this case a system will be invented whereby by camera wielders will be eliminated day by day, until only two or three—or even sixty—are left for the final round.

A sizeable gallery that followed the Jones party over the narrow interlocked fairways of Interlachen today saw one shot that should go down in the books. Tolley drove a dot to 315-yard green. It's a fact. The green is around the bend and out of sight of the tee.

AROUND THE BEND. The bend is screened by a grove of tall trees. Tolley played a controlled hook shot that took the curve of the Haughdaul grove around a dirt track. Those standing near the green reported the ball hit only a short distance in front and ran up between the traps into the short grass at the front edge.

Cyril chipped up and putted out his birdie 3. It was an eye-filling shot, and made a new record. He made again. The big Englishman was outpunching Bobby on nearly every hole where distance was necessary, but he was off line frequently. Yet his marvelous recoveries from the rough with irons kept his score close to Bob's.

Bobby put in a full day shadow boxing with Interlachen and finished with two 72s and a lively case of sunburn. Although he is bronzed from the wind of England his skin reacted even as yours and mine to the wind and hot sun that bathed the Minnesota hills today.

SKETCH OF ROUND. A sketch of his afternoon round may show how he played to go so loosely and still keep on top of par. He pushed his drive into the rough, came out with a fair iron, laid an approach within three feet of the pin and then missed his putt to take a 5 on the par 4 No. 1. Then he missed a three-foot putt on No. 2 and booked another buzzard 5. He got one of those strokes back from par by playing the long 4th hole in a birdie.

Incidentally the foursome turned in three birdies and a par on "this hole and Interlachen club members gasped. They are proud of their 4th hole. It is 500 yards long, has a lake in front of the green and everything. But the distinguished guests tore it all to pieces.

Bobby went on to the turn in exactly par and was 1 down when he crossed. He floundered a bit at No. 5, but he was back to even on the long 6th hole.

Under Dogs Have Days on Major League

Braves, Chisox Push Leaders for Spotlight

Cards Keep Climbing in National; Senators, Macks Hold On.

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer.

The underdogs had their day in the major leagues last week, although they could not entirely displace the leaders from the top places in the weekly standing and scoring tables.

The comparatively humble Boston Braves tied the steadily climbing St. Louis Cardinals for National league honors, while the Chicago White Sox tied the American league struggle for a while, trailing the leading Washington and Philadelphia clubs in victories by sticking right with them in hitting and scoring.

CARDS LEAD.

The Cards won six out of seven games to lead the National league in the week's performances, while Washington topped the younger circuit with the same record. Braves took second with eight victories and two defeats and led all rivals in slugging. Behind the Braves, Chicago won four games and lost three, while the New York Giants and Cincinnati followed. Cincinnati had a record unmarked by victory, losing five games.

The Chicago White Sox and Boston Red Sox tied for third in the American league, each with four victories and four defeats. The White Sox also tied with the Athletics for the scoring lead with 45 runs and the remarkably close race for hitting honors was also tied. Only one American league team fell below 70 hits. The White Sox offset a good many of their hits by making 16 errors.

Boston's Braves also led in errors as well as in hits. They hit safely 124 times and scored 73 runs, outdistancing every rival. But they erred 17 times and lost three games. Pittsburgh in displaying the weakest defense in the National league, having 46 runs scored against them. The White Sox were the American league's weakest defensive team, allowing their opponents 51 tallies.

DEFENSIVE PLAY.

Washington, however, won more through good fielding and defensive play than through hitting power. The Senators made 10 errors and held their opponents to 19 runs. They scored 33 times.

Home run hitting powers were divided among the Philadelphia Athletics, Chicago Cubs and New York Giants, each getting seven.

Cincinnati not only lost every game of the week but finished last in most other respects. The Reds made but 51 hits and 16 runs.

JIM THE CONQUEROR

By PETER B. KYNE

THIRTEENTH INSTALLMENT.

"Rancho Valle Verde, Lgs.
Cruces Co., Texas.
June 28, 1925."

"Dear Miss Antrim:

"Supplementing my telegram of a week ago I regret to report that on the 21st inst. your uncle, Thomas Antrim, as the aftermath of a dispute that arose due to your uncle's alleged trespass with his sheep on lands not owned by him, engaged in a duel with rifles on the range some ten miles from Los Algodones. His antagonist, one Jim Higgins, emerged the victor in this sanguinary affray. From the testimony of the latter, in addition to that of a ranger who arrived on the scene immediately following the unfortunate incident, it appears, much as I regret to say so, that Mr. Antrim was very much the aggressor. In fact Higgins was wounded three times by your relative before he found himself in position to return the fire. The ranger brought Higgins and the body of your uncle to Los Algodones, the county seat, where the coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

"In accordance with your telegraphic instructions I have seen to it that your uncle received Christian burial in Odd Fellows cemetery.

"Being at this time confined to my home with a slight indisposition, I directed my general manager to call upon your uncle's foreman in charge of some 40,000 sheep on the range and inform him that it was your wish, as the probable heir to your uncle's estate, that he continue to carry on with the sheep until the arrival of your or your representative here. The foreman, Bill Dingle, impressed your foreman as being a bit recalcitrant. He mentioned having a contract with your uncle to participate to a certain extent in the latter's sheep business and stated that he was not taking orders from anybody. My manager thereupon showed him your telegram to me, conveying your request that I act as your representative temporarily. This written display of authority had little or no effect on Bill Dingle. While Jim Higgins is recovering from his wounds, Bill Dingle continues to trespass on the former's lands.

"Suspecting that your uncle might have made a will, I suggested to the public administrator that he look into the matter. Three days ago I received a letter from this official informing me that the Federal Trust Company, of El Paso, had forwarded a will to be filed for probate at Los Algodones. From this will it appears that you are the sole heir and co-executor with the Federal Trust Company, whose executors, however, may cease, at your option, but only after the trust company shall have been paid certain loans made your uncle in his lifetime.

"You will, doubtless, have to employ a local attorney. If desired, I shall be happy to recommend one who has served the Higgins family ably and faithfully for 40 years—Don Prudencio Alviso, of Los Algodones. "I regret to state that I have very little confidence in the integrity of your foreman, Bill Dingle, and suggest that you take steps to count the sheep immediately. The count will have to be made by one backed by undoubted legal right to do so. Upon the request of the local attorney for the estate the court will appoint a man to do this for you. I advise prompt action.

"If I can serve you further, do not hesitate to command.

"Your obedient servant, Jaime Miguel Higuenes."

"Well," Roberta queried as Crooked Bill folded the letter and laid it on the library table.

The old schemer, rubbed his ingenious head. "Don't like the idea of that El Paso bank being co-executor with you, honey. We'd better ascertain how much money the estate owes the bank, pay them off and get rid of them. I imagine it isn't a great deal. No sane bank would loan Tom Antrim very much. Of course, this Dingle Bell—"

"Bill Dingle," Roberta corrected. "Senior Higuenes doesn't trust him." "Senior Higuenes is evidently in the cattle business, if we may judge from his letter-head, so naturally he wouldn't trust any sheepman. I wouldn't be in too great a hurry to oust Dingle Bell—I mean Bill Dingle, if I were you, Bobby. The qualities that go to make up a good sheep foreman might not appeal to a cattleman. However, I think you should engage Senior Prudencio Alviso as your attorney. What we want now is action. We must have those sheep counted. We'll engage Prudencio by night letter tonight and tell him we're forwarding a thousand for his retainer; we will also suggest that he consult with Higuenes when selecting the man to count the sheep. The court will probably appoint the man nominated by your attorney. Meanwhile we will have to arm you with proper credentials—birth certificate, affidavits and other proof that you are the identical Roberta Antrim mentioned in your uncle's will. Glenn Hackett will attend to that, of course."

The assistant general manager of the Rancho Valle Verde walked into the vine-enclosed veranda where Don Jaime lay at ease in his chaise longue, while a nurse, almost old enough to be his mother, sat in an adjacent chair knitting.

"Well, how's our boss, Mrs. Ganby?" Ken Hobart queried. "His wounds have all healed by first intention," the nurse answered. "I should say he'll be up and around again in a month. Probably lame for a month or two thereafter. At any rate he loses me next week."

Don Jaime, with a polite request to be excused, read his mail. Presently he looked up and there was a glint of devilry in his black eyes. "Don Prudencio Alviso writes me that he has been engaged by Miss Antrim as attorney for the estate; that Miss Antrim has given the Federal Trust Company a check in payment of the notes it held against the estate and that the bank has resigned as co-executor. Old Prudy writes to thank me for sending him the business. He tells me that with his appointment he received a retainer of a thousand dollars and instructions to secure a good man to count the sheep. He suggests you, old leather-face, and I second the nomination, which is tantamount to election where Judge Aurelio Vasquez is concerned. Miss Antrim says she's going to leave everything in her lawyer's hands, with instructions to consult with me, and whatever we two decide to do will meet with her approval. She says she dreads coming down here in summer and she has accepted so many engagements of a social nature."

"Who is Miss Antrim?" the nurse inquired. "The niece and sole heir of the man Antrim I killed after he'd busted me, Mrs. Ganby."

"And you are her adviser—she's friendly with you?" "Oh, she doesn't know I bumped old Tom off. I wrote her about a chap named Jim Higgins had done it."

Ken Hobart chuckled.

"That's his gringo alias, Mrs. Ganby. The first Higuenes to be heard of in Spain was called James Michael Higgins. But the Spaniards gave it a Spanish twist—the 'i' has the sound of 'e' in Spanish and they have a habit of adding 'es' to things. Sometimes they say sheeps or sheeps as the plural of sheep, for instance. So with the passage of time James Michael Higgins, the big Nick, developed into Jaime Miguel Higuenes. When did that happen, Don Jaime?"

GASOLINE ALLEY—EXTRA!

Business World Prepared For Brief Summer Quiet

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER, Associated Press Financial Editor.
NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—With the business year now past its high noon, a siesta seems to be in order, in preparation for the ordeal of the closing months. Several industries are hoping to make a come-back that will compensate for the rather disappointing results of the first half.

The fourth of July holiday normally has a soporific influence on the steel industry. Several mills shut down for the week. Early last week, operations had fallen off close to 90 per cent of capacity, and current estimates in the trade indicate that the entire month will average around that level. Most of the larger automobile manufacturers are planning shut-downs of a fortnight or so this month, which will tend to restrict activity in the basic industry.

Manufacturers in various lines during the next few weeks may be expected to hold down production to permit retailers to dispose of unsold stocks and make way for autumn merchandise. In laying plans for the fall, business executives are deeply concerned over the probable level of public purchasing power. Sharp reductions in the prices of farm products are not fattening the farmers' purse, and extensive lay-offs in motor manufacturing and other centers do not augur well for purchasing power in those areas. Nevertheless, retail sales of late have shown a large reserve of buying power.

Wheat Draws Interest.
With the spring wheat crop now pouring into the markets and harvest having progressed as far north as the Nebraska line, business attention is turned to this important commodity. The wheat market was a little steadier during the past week, as were cotton and live stock. July wheat at Chicago held around 90 cents a bushel, about 25 per cent below last week. Estimates indicate the entire crop of spring and winter wheat in the United States will fall but a little, if any, short of last year, while Canada's crop promises to be much larger. Nevertheless, some further recovery in wheat prices is widely forecast.

On the whole, commodity prices have continued to sag. Iron and steel have held steady during the past week, but some custom smelters again offered copper at 11 1/2 cents, off 1/2 cent. Zinc, several textiles, and gasoline also declined. Bradstreet's index as of July 1 was down to the level of 77.5, from 78.5 a month ago. McGraw-Hill Service calculates that all commodities have declined 11 per cent since the first of the year.

An outstanding item in the week's business news was the announcement by Chrysler Corporation of a 10 per cent reduction in the pay of all salaried employees. No other large corporation has publicly announced such action, although there have been various wage adjustments here and there. On the whole, there is said to be little reduction of wage and salaries.

Not Pessimistic.
It is notable that banking opinion appears to be taking a sober but not deeply pessimistic attitude toward business prospects. The National City Bank's monthly survey, appearing during the week, was in about the same tenor as that of the Guaranty Trust Company, published a few days earlier. Both state that hasty optimism must be abandoned and facts faced squarely; that recovery will be a rather laborious process. The City Bank review pointed out, however, that retail sales are holding up relatively well, thus reducing stocks and bringing an upturn in production nearer. Most indices of business activity show a decline of around 10 per cent, or less, from normal, while the drop in 1921-22 reached about 20 per cent. Furthermore, some improvement must appear after a few weeks, in keeping with seasonal trends.

Building contracts in June are placed at $900,570,700, a gain of $54,680,700 over June, 1929. About $90,000,000 of the total, however, represent natural gas pipe lines. Residential building continues quiet. Freight car loadings for the latest week were off only about 5,000 cars from the previous week, less than the normal seasonal drop. Shippers advisory boards estimates indicate that third quarter movement of freight will be off about 6 1/2 per cent from last year. Electric power output for the last week of June was less than 2 per cent below the like week of last year, although the drop in industrial consumption of power has shown a wide decline.

Credit continues cheap, but not exactly plentiful in all sections of the country. The Boston and Philadelphia federal reserve banks reduced their rates, 1/2 of one per cent to 3 and 3 1/2 per cent, respectively, but Chicago's rate was left unchanged at 3 1/2 per cent. Mid-year bank statements show that the large banks are in an unusually fluid condition. July 3 interest dividend disbursements were estimated as high as $1,000,000,000. Some of these payments seemed to be finding their way into the bond market, which showed a better tone.

WALL STREET-TRADING HOLDS AT LOW POINT

Only Highly Specialized Trading Expected; Earning Reports Show Reduction.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(UN)—Now that the stock market has gone through a brief period of test Wall Street is trying to work out its future. The movements last week were narrow but stocks showed a tendency to resist selling pressure.

Many observers contended that the holiday week was a poor test. Many traders on both the long and short side were reticent about retaining their commitments over the three-day shutdown. Their operations may have offset one another and resulted in the small gains that investment buying produced.

The stagnation of the market makes it dangerous for selling short. Nevertheless the bears were busy on vulnerable spots on Thursday and succeeded in starting substantial reactions in several of them.

The consensus of opinion now is that the market will remain quiet for some time with trading highly selective. Most observers expect some reactions of fairly broad scope, and a few look for prices to break through the 1930 lows established a little more than a week ago.

Second quarter reports coming to light so far have not been representative of the extent of the business depression and more expected this week may show marked decreases in earnings. Railroads continue to report smaller net operating income and car loadings remain down.

One barometer being watched with keen apprehension at the present time is steel production. The past week may show reports of steel production at 50 per cent of capacity. The usual procedure of the industry is to shut down at independence day. Often that time marks a turn for the better but until evidence of such turn comes, the street will be apprehensive.

On the latter assumption it was not difficult for bears to depress Steel common Thursday to 156. Earlier in the week it crossed 161. Incidentally many investors were buying Steel on the theory that its dividend was as secure as the interest on the highest grade bonds.

As it was announced Sunday, The post has been acting under a provisional charter and a permanent charter will be presented tonight. All colored ex-service men, whether members of the post or not, are invited to attend the session.

PRICE ENHANCEMENT BUOYS BOND CIRCLES

BY DONALD C. BOLLES, Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, June 6.—(AP)—General improvement in the price level of the listed bond market developed during the abbreviated trading week which closed Thursday, and had a heartening effect in bond circles.

The advancement was rather arduous in dull sellings but was notable for marking a turn in fixed interest-bearing securities which suffered a setback in June when stock prices broke. As viewed by economists development of a strong bond market is a prerequisite to successful recovery and the hope was expressed that the upward trend established last week forecast a steady climb.

All sections of the investment list benefited from the firm trend of the market, and the gains of some bonds, particularly among railroad issues, have been impressive. Offerings have not been large but each trading day has worked improvement until prices of the best grade issues now closely approximate the level for 1930 established in March.

Bond men point to the rapid drop in the amount of money being used in the stock market through brokers' loans, and lessening of demand for commercial loans, as a very favorable factor for quickening interest in the bond market among banks. Shifting of bank funds to investments has been noted by the Federal Reserve bank of New York, but it reports that the interest displayed in the bond market does not approach the same given in similar circumstances in 1921, 1924 and 1927.

Bank buying is an important factor in the bond market and bond men believe that the low rates on money in the call and bill markets ultimately will cause financial institutions to turn strongly to fixed interest-bearing securities, which offer a good yield. A note of caution in bank buying has been attributed to a desire for highly liquid assets in the event of a sudden change in the money market.

The swing of the pendulum towards bond financing and away from stocks which ruled last year is shown by the reports of public security offerings during the past few months. In 1930 when bonds constituted about 85 per cent of the total, as contrasted with less than 50 during the corresponding period last year.

Although the business days of the week were cut to four by the three-day holiday, bond offerings were about $3,000,000 above the previous week and $80,000,000 above the same week in 1929.

Negro Man Is Robbed, Then Severely Beaten

Handcuffed and forced into an automobile late Saturday night by five armed men, Eugene Johnson, a negro, of 475 Fraser street, was being taken to a wooded spot off of McDonough road beyond the federal prison, was robbed and beaten into unconsciousness, he reported to the police Sunday.

The negro told detectives that he had just alighted from a street car at Capitol avenue and Fulton street when a large curtained touring car containing five men drew up alongside the curb. Three of the men jumped from the machine, he said, and at the point of revolvers threw him inside.

Driving to the spot beyond the prison, which he described as being near a cemetery, Johnson said the men took $6.50 in cash from him, and then beat him into a state of insensibility. Regaining consciousness early Sunday morning he stumbled to the highway, stopped a motorist and came to town, the police were told.

Forest Law Breakers Add to India Unrest

YEOTMAL, CENTRAL PROVINCES, India, July 6.—(AP)—The first group of disobedience volunteers pledged to break the forest law, 8,000 strong—left here today under the leadership of M. S. Aneya, former member of the legislative assembly, on route to a state in which the campaign will be launched Thursday.

There was a public demonstration in honor of the volunteers. They were fully equipped with axes, ambulances, medicines, stretchers and bandages, and even a doctor was in attendance. Others who volunteered to break the forest law are gathering at Pusad from Amratol, Akola and Khamgaon.

British Fliers Lost On Australian Hop

RANGOON, Burma, July 6.—(AP)—A diligent search of land and sea has failed to find any trace of the British airmen Hook and Matthews, since their take-off Thursday from Akyab on an attempted record flight from England to Australia.

An unofficial report that their plane crashed at Tanupur, shortly after leaving Akyab for Rangoon, remains unconfirmed.

The fliers were last seen about 80 miles south of Akyab, heading out to sea. A heavy rain is believed to have forced them to descend on the water.

Imprisoned Sheriff Drinks Lethal Dose

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 6.—(AP)—James E. Statton, sheriff, who was serving a five-year sentence for slaying an employee of the state highway department, swallowed poison in his room at a local hotel today and died an hour later.

Statton, 42, was in the hospital for several days. He was in ill health and had been despondent. He was convicted in February, 1928.

Authorities of the hotel where Statton was registered overheard him say he was going to kill himself. He was communicated to Kilby prison and a prison warden asked the city police to investigate. When officers went to the hotel to find the ex-sheriff's door locked, breaking in they discovered Statton on the bed. He was able to tell them he had swallowed poison.

Trans-Ocean Glider Is Still on Deck

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Bad weather has frustrated thus far the plans of two Long Island youths who sailed last week on the liner Saturnia hoping to cross the Atlantic in a towed glider.

The young men, Robert Lewis and Hugh Keavney, made their third unsuccessful attempt to launch their pontoon equipped aircraft today.

"Southwest gale. Impossible to launch glider. Aviators have had luck," said a message from the Saturnia's captain.

John D. Rockefeller Will Be 91 Tuesday

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 6.—(AP) John D. Rockefeller, 91 years old Tuesday, will spend his birthday on his estate, pursuing the quiet daily routine that has marked his later years.

Reports from the estate are that the Rockefeller "log" for the day will read something like this:

"8 A. M.—Arose an hour later than last birthday—and eat a simple breakfast."

"9 A. M.—His secretary will read a digest of the world's news to him. 9:30 A. M.—Dictate letters."

"10 A. M.—He will join some of his 'cousins' from the village and they will play golf on his private course. He will be keenly intent upon the game and probably after a particularly fine shot or putt he will jokingly remark that such work is not had for a 91-year-old. Because of his short but accurate shooting (a fact which has characterized his business life) he will doubtless trim some of his opponents and joke some more. He may even console them with plenary dines."

Noon—Return to the house for a rest and light lunch. He will pose for a picture under a definite stipulation that all newspapers will be privileged to use it. He will refer reporters to his prepared statement.

"6 or 6:30 P. M.—Dinner with Mrs. Rockefeller, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. David Milton, and several of his grandchildren. Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., is in the west and will not be present."

Pritzewitz Declares U. S.-Germany Friends

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The opinion that reconciliation between the American and German people after the World War has become an accomplished fact was expressed today by Ambassador Von Pritzewitz in a radio address.

The German ambassador's message was broadcast over the Conclave of Nations series of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Prefacing his remarks with a tribute to trans-Atlantic aviators, Herr Von Pritzewitz said:

"If technical science and technical skill have been able to diminish the physical distance which separates Europe from America, it is perhaps still more gratifying that the forces of good will on both sides of the ocean have been able equally to reduce the mental distance created between our two peoples by the war."

Chinese Government Wins Bloody Battle

SHANGHAI, July 6.—(AP)—The government, hard pressed by rebel forces and bandit hordes, today gained another victory.

Advises said the government definitely crushed the Kwangsi province rebellion after a severe five-day battle in southern Hunan province near the Kwangsi border. The nationalists claimed they reduced the insurgent ranks from 25,000 to 10,000, the surviving rebels fleeing into Kwangsi. Government casualties also were heavy.

Bandits yesterday fired upon American and British gunboats in the Yangtze river near Yochow, Hunan, killing Samuel Elkins, Brooklyn seaman on the U. S. S. Guam. Two British sailors also were wounded in an exchange of fire before the bandits finally were driven off.

The outlaws, following the path cut recently by rebel armies, pillaged and killed as they passed, terrorizing the countryside west and south of the tri-city, Hankow, Wuchang and Han-Yang.

Banditry followed withdrawal of government troops to the northern Hunan front, where a 13-day battle is believed to hold China's destiny.

Workers May Strike On Cuban Tube Job

MATANZAS, Cuba, July 6.—(AP)—A possibility loomed tonight that Dr. Georges Claude, French scientist, may again be delayed in testing the practicability of a scheme to make the gulf stream supply Cuba's industrial power.

Dr. Claude's workers have refused to accept an announced 20 per cent wage cut and threaten to stop work on the great steel tube which the scientist needs for his experiment.

Claude said the laborers "apparently do not realize the necessity which compels me to cut wages" and declared he would ask government intervention if work stopped.

He hopes to be able to complete construction of the tube and have it launched by August 8.

Cholera Is Gaining Hold in Philippines

MANILA, July 6.—(AP)—Cholera has made widespread gains in the Philippines in the past week, department of health figures released today revealed.

The disease has entered several previously unaffected places despite efforts of health authorities to check it. Deaths since June 20 were estimated at 221.

Dr. R. W. Hart, director of the United States public health service in the Philippines, has placed the city of Cebu under a modified quarantine, requiring examination of all departing passengers and their vaccination. An official report for the period from June 20 to July 1 places the number of cases in the islands at 436 and the deaths at 188.

Heavy Floods Sweep Over Northern Spain

MADRID, July 6.—(AP)—Floods swept northern Spain today while many residents of southern Spain were camping in fields in fear of another earthquake following the shocks last night.

Dispatches said crops, livestock and buildings had been damaged by floods near Santander, Pampolo, Logrono and Burgos. Vineyards were especially hard hit, high winds adding to the damage.

The earthquake shocks were of great intensity at Seville, Granada and Cordoba. At Lucena, loud subterranean noises were heard while the trembling earth rang the churchbells.

Patriarch Enthroned

BELGRADE, July 6.—(AP)—Patriarch Eftimije, of the Serbian Orthodox church, successor to the late Patriarch Pavlovitch, was enthroned today in the presence of King Alexander and Queen Marie. An enormous gathering witnessed the century old ceremony.

WINTER HARD WHEAT GROWERS WARNED

Department of Agriculture Cites Hazards of Falling Prices.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Growers of hard winter wheat in areas where the rainfall is limited were warned today by the department of agriculture to exercise special caution in expanding production.

In view of the increasing world production and the probable low levels of prices, the department, in a statement prepared by field experts and representatives of the federal farm board, said expansion should be undertaken, if at all, only by those thoroughly familiar with the conditions and hazards involved.

"As long as hard winter wheat is produced in excess of domestic re-

Tallahassee To Vote On Sunday Movies

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 6.—(AP) Voters of Florida's capital city will go to the polls tomorrow in a special municipal election to decide the hotly contested issue of whether Tallahassee will have Sunday motion pictures.

The special election was called by the city commission when groups opposed to movies on the Sabbath requested the commission to enforce the city law which prohibits them. Other groups, favoring the movies at hour which would not conflict with church services, petitioned the commission to amend the law so as to permit afternoon performances.

City officials today estimated that 1,200 votes will be cast tomorrow. Tallahassee has only one motion picture theater.

Stock Market's June Sales Tally New High for Month

BY R. L. BARNUM.
NEW YORK, July 6.—It was in March of 1926 that Wall Street had first had a scare over brokers' loans. At that time the market seemed to be dropping to the bottom, and the average of the stock market with the average for 50 representative shares, half of which were industrials, down 22 1/2 points. Liquidation in the stock market during the month just closed, however, was far more severe than in March of 1926.

On the first business day of the month just ended the average price of the stock market stood at 229.15. The low for the month was made on the 15th at 179.12. That is a drop of 50.06 points. On the first 21 business days of June up to and including the 25th, there were 14 days of declines, with an average price one day dropping as much as 11.31 points.

Of the 25 business days in June, there were six days when the turnover on the New York Stock Exchange dropped below 2,000,000 shares. These days, however, were at the beginning and end of the month, that happened in between made the turnover for June 76,593,000 shares, new high record for the month, compared with 60,547,000 shares for June 1929 which was the previous high record.

Reverses Position.
What happened this June in the stock market was the exact reverse of what happened in June, 1929. From the opening of the market on June 1, 1929, there was a net gain of 4.43 points.

The month of June closed with the stock market at a new high, and the outlook that has been since stock prices began to decline last autumn. Over the week-end business survey committee at Washington made public an exhaustive study of various industries. Wall Street's conclusion was that the decline of the market was not due to a general depression, but to a temporary reaction to the closing of the month.

On the opening day of the month the Guaranty Trust Company in a regular monthly letter frankly stated that in recent weeks the general course of business has been toward lower levels, adding: "But even with full allowance for seasonal changes, there can be no doubt as to the reactionary character of recent results. Recent developments, moreover, do not brighten the outlook for a marked return in the early future."

Terms Business Sick.
Next, the National City Bank came out with its regular monthly letter stating that the past month has witnessed a deepening of the feeling of discouragement about business to the extent that the average businessman has been inclined to question his faith in the recuperative powers of the country more than at any time since the stock market panic last autumn.

Adding: "Business pretty much the world over is sick, and it will serve the cause of revival better to face this fact squarely and with determination to take all necessary steps to eliminate the obstructive influences than to cherish a blind optimism as to the date and period of convalescence. At the same time it is just as necessary to preserve an even balance against unwarranted pessimism and to take account of encouraging features of the situation."

Despite this week's frank talk from high quarters regarding the general business situation and outlook, one of the ablest bankers in Wall Street today stated without hesitation in private conversation that he now sees more reason for encouragement than at any time within the past year. This banker pointed out that until very recently there was a widespread inclination to ignore actual conditions in general trade, a widespread frame of mind that did not make for adjustment and convalescence; that the continued decline in commodity prices has made it impossible to continue to ignore actual worldwide conditions. This banker believes that the downward readjustment in commodity prices has about been completed; that this month will see the low level in general trade, a widespread frame of mind that did not make for adjustment and convalescence; that the continued decline in commodity prices has made it impossible to continue to ignore actual worldwide conditions.

Our banker friend believes that there is ground for encouragement in the recent abandonment of "new era" ideas. He pointed out that as recently as the middle of April the stock market was daily making a new 1930 high price on the viewpoint widely assumed last autumn that aside from the stock market everything was all right and that as soon as the stock market panic of last October and November was forgotten general business would again go ahead. This banker recalled the story told by Josiah Stamp at the luncheon given him a few weeks ago at the New York Bankers' Club, to the effect that it was important for a country to have its thinking machine going in the right direction. The story was about a Scotchman running alongside a tram car calling out to the conductor, "How much to the town hall?" Instead of getting on the Scotchman kept running five or ten minutes and asked, "How much to the town hall?" only to have the fare doubled because he had been running in the wrong direction.

Our banker friend, quoted above, points out the decline that has occurred in commodity prices; that the natural tendency of buyers of raw and finished goods is to order only for immediate needs as long as prices are declining and then buy even with borrowed money when a long sustained decline has ended. It is, he says, "Business pretty much the world over is sick, and it will serve the cause of revival better to face this fact squarely and with determination to take all necessary steps to eliminate the obstructive influences than to cherish a blind optimism as to the date and period of convalescence. At the same time it is just as necessary to preserve an even balance against unwarranted pessimism and to take account of encouraging features of the situation."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON CONTINUES QUIET

NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—(P)—The cotton market was decidedly quiet during the past week, there being a disinclination to enter upon fresh commitments owing to the approach of the government acreage estimate due Tuesday, July 8. The long holiday at the end of the week also restricted new business and created a desire to even up commitments. The cotton markets both here and in New York were closed both Friday and Saturday for the Independence Day holidays.

As a result of the slim trading fluctuations were narrow and prices showed no definite trend. In the early part of the week prices improved slightly owing to the high temperatures and hot winds which prevailed over large sections of the belt, but when these conditions were later relieved by good rains, particularly in the central portion of the belt, also lowering the temperatures, the market lost the early advance and net results at the end of the week showed net changes of only a few points.

There was further liquidation of the July position during the week and some further notices for comparative small amounts were issued from day to day both here and in New York. As a result the July option lost all premium over October and was at a small discount compared with the active new crop month.

As a result of the elimination of the recent wide difference between the spot month and October there has been more or less trade buying and considerable price fixing and there have been reports of a better spot demand in some of the southern markets.

An encouraging development at the close of the week was the report of a better demand in the cotton goods market and firmer prices for most of the leading textiles.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans futures market during the past week compared with a year ago.

Wall Street Briefs
NEW YORK, July 6.—While not considerable in volume, business in silk goods is being conducted at extremely narrow profit margins, a survey by Standard Statistics Company states. Retailers and silk goods converters in their turn are demanding sizeable price concessions from mills which are succeeding generally in their efforts to reduce stocks on hand. Domestic supplies of silk in storage have been halved since the beginning of the year.

W. T. Grant Company reports sales of $2,469,105 for June, an increase of 1.76 per cent over $2,421,111 for June last year. Sales for the first six months this year totaled $30,612,901, an increase of 11.68 per cent over $26,511,593 for the like period in 1929.

Recently I asked C. R. Palmer, president of Chittenden & Company, how he had moved up from the lowest position to the highest in his organization, in so brief a time. "I know of no success rules," he replied. "I am always interested in a chap who likes work for the sake of working. Give me the plunger—that one who keeps on working irrespective of obstacles. That type of young fellow will succeed."

Knowing that Mr. Palmer had attended the University of Iowa, I asked him if he thought a college education was essential for business success.

"Helpful, but not essential. The important thing is to pick a leader in your line, a company headed by a man of character—a square shooter. Then stick to that leader."

Mr. Palmer, the son of a Hawkeye, Iowa, storekeeper, quit the university to help his father. He dreamed of larger things. So he moved to Davenport, Iowa, and later to Chicago. There he started to work with the company of which he is now president as "assistant house manager."

By 1914, he was made manager of the Kansas City territory. Eight years later, in 1922, he was sent to San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle and Denver.

In 1925 he returned to Chicago with more territory under his supervision than ever. Two years later, he was called to the University of Iowa. A year ago, he moved into the president's office, hung his hat on the rack, and was ready to work.

"How's business?" I asked him.

"Our business is ahead of most years, and our inventories are in excellent shape. June has shown a slight let-up, but we haven't a kick coming," was his quick response.

Everybody's Business.

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR.
Economist Says Banks Must Liquidate Collateral Loans to Stabilize Market—Raw Sugar Touches Lowest Price in Last Hundred Years.

Lewis Haney, former economist of the federal trade commission, thinks that further liquidation of collateral loans in the banks is necessary before all the credit cranks are ironed out.

The Haney line of reasoning about stock market cycles is somewhat as follows:

1. Speculators bid money rates up. 2. New funds poured in from all over the world. 3. Next, as the market gets wobbly, some foreign funds are hastily withdrawn and a market crash follows. 4. The banks in New York city then step in and take up the credit load, increasing their loans to make up for the loss of outside funds. 5. Finally, the banks get their collateral loans down as the continued liquidation occurs.

Mr. Haney believes the New York stock market credit situation is now between the fourth and fifth stages of this process.

While outside funds are being withdrawn, the interior banks too are cutting their loans and as a result, while brokers' loans are going down, collateral loans of the New York banks are right now $788,000,000 larger than a year ago.

Says Haney: "Further liquidation is required and this means that there must be more selling of securities. That probably will mean still lower prices for many stocks."

Last week saw a cut of about 10 per cent of the total brokers' loans. So now they are, in volume, about where they were in October, 1927.

As brokers' loans drop, collateral loans of the banks rise. They stand at nearly $2,500,000,000 greater now than they were in October, 1927.

Further liquidation of collateral loan accounts may be expected in the next few weeks.

Raw sugar prices are lower now than they have been in a hundred years, which is as far back as reliable records are available. Refined prices are down below the 1914 levels.

Trustworthy estimates place the world's supply of raw sugar on hand at 1,500,000 tons more than it was a year ago.

Willett & Gray, world sugar experts, say the total world production of raw sugar for 1929-30 will amount to 26,724,000 tons, about 2 per cent under the record production of last year, when 27,270,000 were estimated.

But consumption is about 3 per cent under that of a year ago.

Russia has contracted for 135,000 tons of Cuban sugar, and is again negotiating for an additional tonnage estimated from 125,000 to 365,000 tons.

Standard Statistics, in its report of the survey at the present time, says: "No reduction in surplus stocks on hand is indicated in the near future."

A good time for the housewife to put up fruit preserves.

Must a corporate trustee exercise more judgment and skill in handling a trust relationship than was exercised by the old-fashioned individual executor or trustee?

In 1923 a trust was turned over to a New York company. Certain common stocks in sugar companies were among the assets turned over. In September, 1928, one sugar common stock was selling at $5 a share. It dropped steadily until now the market is less than 50 cents a share.

Should the trustee be held responsible for the loss?

"Yes," said the New York court.

"The law imposes," said the surrogate judge, "upon trustees a duty to employ such diligence, prudence, sagacity and vigilance in the care and management of an estate as a prudent man of discretion employ in their own like affairs. This necessarily excludes all speculation, all investment for an uncertain and doubtful rise in the market, and, of course, everything that does not take into view the nature and object of the trust, and the consequences of a mistake in the selection of the investment to be made."

The trust company today has a much harder job than had the old individual trustee, because a trust company advertises to the world that it is qualified to act in such matters.

With the complexity of modern business, it puts an added job on trust companies.

The New York surrogate ruling on the responsibility of the modern corporate trustee is a healthy omen—for those who leave their estates in trust.

Recently I asked C. R. Palmer, president of Chittenden & Company, how he had moved up from the lowest position to the highest in his organization, in so brief a time. "I know of no success rules," he replied. "I am always interested in a chap who likes work for the sake of working. Give me the plunger—that one who keeps on working irrespective of obstacles. PRINT CLOTH PRICES GENERALLY ADVANCE

NEW YORK, July 6.—Our sales last week were larger than for any week since the last week in April, and we feel more confident than ever that the low point on sales was seen during the last two weeks of May. June production has been less than May production and, with the additional holidays in July, we expect to see production this month reach a lower figure still. Though improvement will undoubtedly be slow, we think the worst has been seen.

The most noteworthy event of the week has been the cessation of pressure on print cloths and consequent advance in prices on the two numbers where pressure had been the greatest, 38 1/2-inch 64-60s and 30-inch 68-72s, with decided increase in amount of inquiry and volume of business done. Constant pressure to sell day after day by a very limited number of sellers, perhaps for pre-inventories seasons, had carried the price of 38 1/2-inch 64-60s to the extremely low point of 5c, the lowest touched in 14 years, by Thursday morning of last week. At that price the last of the distress goods were evidently cleared up; by that evening the price had advanced to 5 1/4-c, by Monday it had risen to 5 1/4-c, and the next day reached 5 3/4-c. Trading on the advance was large. The price today is 5 3/4-c for actual spots, 5 1/2-c for contracts. The low price touched on the 39-inch 68-72s was 6c and the present price is 6 1/4-c with some asking 6 3/4-c.

At the same time there has been better inquiry for broadcloths but little, if any, sign of improved inquiry has yet appeared in sheetings or drills and prices on those constructions are still at the low points. We expect to see a turn for the better in sheetings before long and we are confident that we have seen the low point on print cloths and that there is little chance of 64-60s getting back to 5c again this summer. It has taken a long time for the market to feel the effects of the curtailment but now it has begun to tell.

The federal reserve board reports that for the country at large wholesale trade in dry goods for May showed a decline of 15 per cent from the previous year. The greatest declines were shown in the Dallas, San Francisco and Atlanta districts; the least in the Philadelphia, New York and Cleveland districts. For the first five months of the year wholesale trade in dry goods showed a falling off of 10 per cent; Chicago and Dallas showed the largest declines, Philadelphia and Richmond the least. Retail trade for May fell off but 2 per cent and for the first five months of the year showed a decline of only 3 per cent. New York and Richmond districts showed gains for May; Boston and New York showed gains for the first five months. The heaviest decreases for the month were shown by Chicago, St. Louis and Dallas, and for the five months by Atlanta, Chicago and Dallas. Sales of domestic, muslins, etc., for May were but 1 per cent below May, 1929, while sales of cotton wash goods were on a par with the previous year.

90-Day Treasury Bills To Be Sold July 10
WASHINGTON, July 6.—(P)—Secretary Mellon announced today the first financing for the new fiscal year. The treasury through federal reserve banks will receive bills for $30,000,000 90-day treasury bills up to 2 o'clock on the afternoon of July 10.

The bills will be issued under the law that went into effect a year ago permitting the treasury to sell the bills on a discount basis and redeem them at par when they mature. It will be the fourth issue of such securities, which has been found a popular way of raising money needed by the government at a lower interest cost.

The bills will be dated July 14 and mature on September 15, the date of the third payment of income tax for the calendar year 1930. Bids will not be received at the treasury.

20 Billion Turnover In U. S. Foreign Trade
WASHINGTON, July 6.—(P)—American business dealings abroad, which meant a turnover of about $5,000,000,000 annually 20 years ago, have expanded to the point that their 1929 dimensions could be represented only by setting a turnover total of $20,000,000,000.

The estimate was expressed during the course of a radio talk tonight by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce. He emphasized that the complex relationships of modern nations required the inclusion of tourists' expenditure, of charitable and mission donations, and of international investment swings to determine the reality about national trade balances.

"Our excess imports of foreign pleasures and culture alone, through the medium of tourist travel, gave other countries last year about $570,000,000 with which to make payments to us for merchandise or any other items they owed," Dr. Klein remarked.

"While our demand for foreign goods was less than the foreign demand for our goods, our desire for their services and scenery was much greater than their desire for ours."

"These invisible exchanges between nations, he commented, were now getting to be as important as the visible exchanges of commodities actually shipped. He suggested that all discussions of tariff and international balance should be conducted in the light of facts about them.

Curbs Gains Spotted During Past Week
BY JOHN L. COOLEY.
Associated Press Financial Writer.
NEW YORK, July 6.—(P)—Curbs market stocks worked irregularly higher during the past four-day week, cut short by the holiday suspension. Shares made substantial progress during the early sessions, but bear pressure and pre-holiday liquidation wiped out much of the advance before the market closed. Trading was exceptionally dull, falling off at times to the levels of the summer of 1928. The daily turnover averaged only about 500,000 shares.

Electric Bond and Share was an active feature, rising about 6 points, and getting above 80. Later, however, it slipped back to 77 5/8, where it showed a net gain for the week of only about 2 points. United Gas was also turned over in large volume, working up about 2 points. Another natural gas stock, Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line, rose nearly 3. Utility shares generally, however, were irregular, and under considerable pressure before the week closed. American Gas and Electric showed a gain of 4 points early in the week, but ended with a net loss of similar extent.

Some of the industrials and specialties fared fairly well. Swift International rose about 4 points in response to reports of arrangements for harmonious relations with large Argentine companies. Some of the aviation stocks were helped by government orders. Consolidated Aircraft rose more than 4 points. Hazelton shot upward in response to a favorable patent decision. Deere mounted about 7 points, but ended with a gain of only 2. The Dresser stocks were firm. The new American Tobacco shares ran into selling late in the week, and Technicolor was again under pressure.

Oils made some progress, only to fall back on reports of sagging gasoline prices. Humble and Gulf each

NEGRO IS HUNTED IN MACON SLAYING
MACON, Ga., July 6.—(P)—David Clayton, young negro, fell dead today when the full charge of a shotgun entered his throat and chest. Andrew Little, negro, facing a coroner's jury verdict of murder, is being hunted by the police.

Samuel Clayton and Cleveland Clayton, brothers of the dead negro, are in the city hall barracks as a result of an argument in the room with the corpse just after the shooting.

Harrison Company Reports Big Demand for Recent Book

The Harrison Company of 151 Spring street, S. W., dealer and publisher of law books, is having many calls from lawyers all over the southern states for its latest issue, "May It Please the Court," by James M. Beck, representative in congress from Pennsylvania, former solicitor general of the United States, and author of "The Constitution of the United States." This work is a compilation of his most important arguments at the bar and in the halls of congress, his delightfully illuminating addresses, and his brilliant occasional speeches. It will make a splendid addition to any up-to-date lawyer's library.

This company has many specialized departments that assure prompt and accurate service, and the customer can get any book treating on the legal subject he is interested in. The firm publishes numerous law books under an equitable system of royalties, thereby eliminating any expense to the authors.

In the new law book department, the firm's stock includes books from all law book publishers, no matter how recent the book. Under an arrangement with other publishers, the firm can render quick service in emergencies.

As there has been a definite need for buying and exchange services in law books, this firm has a used law book department and will buy a single book, sets, or complete libraries, and by reason of this is in a position to supply books covering almost every legal question that has come up over a long period.

Several years ago, the Harrison Company noted an increasing demand upon the part of law libraries, for current information and the examination privileges of new law books and established the library department. This department has become very popular with law libraries everywhere, and is now called upon for authentic information on all phases of law publications and printed records.

The appraisal department is of far more importance, in law books, than the average layman would think. Suppose, as an illustration, a prominent lawyer, or jurist, dies and chief among his assets are his law books. The administrators of his estate, unless they have made years of study of the values of law books, cannot near approximate the true value of the collection. The same applies when law firms dissolve, or when a book collection or library is put up for sale. One feature of this appraisal department that is popular with leading law firms is the fire insurance precaution. They have their law books appraised so that they may know what their replacement value would be in case of fire.

The bureau of information, under direction of one of the officials, will promptly supply information as to the price, the availability or location of any recent, or old publication, or set of law books.

Building Material Yard Established

Car drivers, who have the occasion to pass by the block on Piedmont avenue, between Glimmer and Decatur streets, have seen great stocks of new and second-hand building material accumulating very rapidly there in the past five or six months.

This busy place, known as Toney's Junk Yard, covering nearly an acre of ground, is a good place for the person who wants one new or second-hand board, or 2 by 4, or the builder who may need a thousand feet or a carload of new and second-hand lumber.

The proprietor, A. J. Mantovani, knows building from all angles and buys in large quantities so as to get the benefit of low prices.

The same applies to plumbing supplies and the buyers who want a few feet of small pipe or couplings, or a truck load can be pretty sure to find just what they need. Quantities of steam radiators of all sizes are also in the stock.

CHATEAU BLERANCOURT BECOMES MEMORIAL

BLERANCOURT, France, July 6.—(P)—The Chateau de Blerancourt, wartime headquarters for Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. A. M. Dike and their assistants of the committee for devastated France, was today turned over to the French government as a monument to the memory of Mrs. Dike, who died in Paris last year.

The "Amis de Blerancourt," a society founded by Miss Morgan, took charge of partly restoring the chateau, which time and war had reduced to a few jumbled piles of weatherbeaten stone.

Premier Andre Tardieu, M. Henri Verne, director of national museums; M. Jean Guiffrey, conservator of the Louvre museum, and a number of other important members of the official and artistic life of France, were present at today's ceremony. The premier paid special tribute to Miss Morgan and Mrs. Dike for their work.

"You citizens of France have suffered, but those of the United States know well the terrible trials you have been through. By this work you may realize the understanding and affection bestowed by the American committee for devastated France."

"You underwent two years of war by the side of the Americans. Now that is finished, and the ruins have been rebuilt."

He had high praise for America's part in the rehabilitation of the war area, pointing out that not only material aid but spiritual sympathy was given.

Among the Americans who attended the luncheon and presentation were Mrs. J. Ridgely Carter, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Arthur Ellis Hamm.

Man and Wife Held As Bank Robbers

SEARCY, Ark., July 6.—(P)—Sheriff J. Pitts Yarnell, of White county, late Saturday night arrested Arthur Carmody, alias Frank Brown and his wife, Gene, and said they admitted robbery of a bank in Colorado Springs, Colo., last Wednesday. Mrs. Carmody had bullet wounds in the breast and chin.

Sheriff Yarnell said he arrested the

New York To Honor Negro War Mothers

NEW YORK, July 6.—(P)—New York city today announced plans for an official reception for the first contingent of negro Gold Star mothers—104 in number—who will arrive here Friday en route to the graves of their sons in France.

Mayor James J. Walker will formally receive the mothers at city hall. On the platform in the auditorium chamber, where the ceremony will be held, will be Major General Hanson Ely, several congressmen, representatives of white Gold Star mothers, delegations of Elks and Masonic bodies and 300 negroes prominent in Harlem.

The mayor will be escorted from his private office to the auditorium chamber by Willie Rush, of Atlanta, one of the best-known of the negro war mothers. Eighty negro soldiers, formerly of the old fifteenth infantry, will act as guards of honor. In front of city hall the entire 369th (the old 15th) will be lined up as well as two companies of United States regulars from Governor's Island and one company of sailors from the Brooklyn navy yard.

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR No. 97

Chulk and a half dozen other apes waddled rapidly forward, following the ape-man's directions, seized both him and Werper and bore them off toward the jungle. The Belgian officer now succeeded in persuading his trembling command to fire a volley after the retreating apes. A ragged, straggling volley it was, but at least one of its bullets found a mark, for, as the jungle closed about the hairy rescuers, Chulk, who bore Werper across one broad shoulder, staggered.

Chulk reeled from side to side and at last fell mortally wounded. As he went down he dropped Werper, so that the latter fell face downward with the body of the ape lying flat across him. In this position the Belgian felt something resting against his hands, which were still bound at his back—something that was not a part of the hairy body of the ape. Mechanically the man's fingers felt of the object resting almost in their grasp—it was a soft pouch filled with small, hard particles.

Werper gasped in wonderment as recognition filtered through the incredulity of his mind. It was impossible, and yet—it was true! Tarzan, sitting at a short distance away, was busy with the main, maiming knots of the cords that bound him. Presently he flung aside the last of them and arose. Approaching Werper he knelt beside him. For a moment he examined the ape. "Quite dead," he announced. "Too bad. He was a splendid fellow," and then he turned to the work of liberating the Belgian. When he had freed his hands Werper stayed him.

"I can do the rest with my pocket-knife," he said. Thus he succeeded in ridding himself of the ape man's attention. A moment later he had cut the thong which fastened the pouch about Chulk's shoulder, and once more he was in possession of the jewels of Opur. Then he arose and approached Tarzan. "Now," said the ape-man, "keep your promise to me. Lead me to the spot where you last saw my wife." The apes trailed after the two white men, but soon their interest lagged and Tarzan and Werper continued.

Rhine Evacuation, Tariff Share World News Interest

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

While the world struggled with new perplexities during the week in various countries affecting international relations, one of the most vital problems of those still left over from the World War disappeared with the evacuation of the Rhineland by the last allied occupying forces.

At midnight, June 30, the third and last Rhineland zone was returned to the sovereignty of Germany. The tri-colored flag waved over the territory for the past 11 years was hauled down and troops marched out and entrained for France, and German officials once more were in control.

The evacuation was one of the most important results of the famous Young plan which superseded the Dawes plan. It was a day of rejoicing for Germans, interrupted by local disorders in some of the evacuated cities when German loyalists sought to punish separatists involved in the former movement for the separation of the Rhineland regions from Germany. In some cases separatists were badly beaten and it was necessary for the police to take energetic measures to bring an end to the attacks.

While the Franco-German problem was being wound-up, the prospects of solution of the outstanding Franco-Italian naval differences seemed more remote than ever. Foreign Minister Briand, in an interview published in London, intimated that Premier Mussolini's recent speeches had put a damper on the renewal of the interrupted negotiations.

Tariff Protested.

The new American tariff continued to have reverberations in Europe, although these were chiefly indirect. The import duty on automobiles had been increased from 20 to 25 percent. There was nothing to indicate that this was a direct answer to the new American tariff, but it was believed that it was a domestic economic measure on the part of Italy.

During the week Ogden L. Mills, American under-secretary of the treasury, arrived in Paris where it was understood he planned to make an investigation of the double taxation situation in Italy were inclined to look upon the action as a form of retaliation.

At the same time, American authorities took the position that the increase was not a reprisal for a domestic economic measure on the part of Italy.

The proposal of Foreign Minister Briand, of France, for a kind of federation of Europe, which had been described in some of the European press as a method of combatting American financial "domination" was still under consideration by most of the European chancelleries. The Netherlands sent an answer expressing appreciation of the French initiative, but suggesting that the ground was not yet sufficiently prepared for a federal union. However, the answer was regarded as encouraging in French official circles.

New Government.

During the week, the world saw a new government set up in Bolivia after a successful revolt against the former government of President Siles. The president had resigned his office, but the insurgents in this move to consolidate their hold on the government. General Hans Kundt, German commander-in-chief of the Bolivian army, also was the object of dislike by the revolutionaries and was forced to take refuge in foreign legations. A new governmental union was set up in La Paz and the country was restored to tranquility.

China's civil war continued unabated. From all indications it appeared that the nationalist government in Nanking, beginning to gain the upper hand although severely pressed both from the south, where communists and insurgents are in the field, and in the north where the northern army has been conquering territory. The nationalist government is seeking to set up a central government of their own.

A correspondent for the Associated Press, who was in the fighting areas, reported that the Chinese fighting was fiercer than ever. He reported thousands of wounded and crowded hospital conditions in many places.

Josef Stalin, strong man of soviet Russia, who has been in power since the death of Lenin, asserted his leadership in unmistakable terms during this week's celebration of the 15th anniversary of the Russian revolution.

The international communist council held a widely-attended meeting in Bournemouth at which many of the vital religious problems of the day were discussed. On Monday, the 15th anniversary of the Russian revolution, the Anglican Church of the World will begin.

FRANCE WILL AID U.S. TO STOP RUM FLOW

Will Watch St. Pierre and Miquelon Isles for Smuggling.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(UN)—Word that France has acted to prevent use of the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, off the Newfoundland coast, as a base for liquor smuggling, was greeted with pleasure by treasury and state department officials here.

These officials professed ignorance of recent action by this government to check smuggling at those points, but it was believed that the treasury agents in Paris may have brought recent pressure, on the basis of a two-year-old government protest against the rum-running which is reported as having increased greatly following the new Canadian liquor export restrictions.

The warner protest transmitted to France through the state department, has been pending since it was made, no assurances of definite reply having been received up to now.

Treasury authorities contend that such action is required under a treaty, by which France and England agreed to allow France to hold these islands as a "fishery harbor." This is interpreted here to mean that no center of commerce or fortifications are to be allowed there.

The proposal of Foreign Minister Briand, of France, for a kind of federation of Europe, which had been described in some of the European press as a method of combatting American financial "domination" was still under consideration by most of the European chancelleries. The Netherlands sent an answer expressing appreciation of the French initiative, but suggesting that the ground was not yet sufficiently prepared for a federal union. However, the answer was regarded as encouraging in French official circles.

Four Are Injured AS AUTO OVERTURNS

MARIETTA, Ga., July 6.—Four persons were injured, one seriously, on the Powder Springs road, near here, late tonight, when the tire of an automobile in which they were riding blew out and wrecked the machine, through these tiny islands to Canada to escape the import tax.

Authorities here assert that much liquor is smuggled from Glasgow and other old-world ports, through these tiny islands to Canada to escape the import tax.

A Correction.

Through a typographical error in the heading of a news story from Memphis, Tenn., carried in The Constitution Sunday, July 6, readers who did not scan the entire story may have gained the wrong impression concerning the status of charges placed against D. C. Vorus, former Atlanta, "Former Atlanta Man Held."

The heading read, "Former Atlanta Man Held," and should have been, "Former Atlanta Man Freed."

Miss Hawkins, several times holder of the world's record in the 100-yard dash, was dismissed. The charges were the result of a misunderstanding, it is shown.
